Strike Threat Eased

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Union officials last night recommended acceptance of conciliation proposals to settle the forest industry contract bargaining in the B.C. coast region.

Martin:

Wait, See On China

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin indicated Friday the government will come to some decision on recognition of Communist China after the United Nations General Assembly this fall—but not before.

He said in a one-day foreign debate in the Commons, where attendance dropped at one point to fewer than 30 MPs in the 26-seat chamber, that the extent of any modifications in the Canadian position on China will not become apparent until the government sees what developments occur at the UN assembly.

CLOSE VOTE:

These developments might be the sealing of Red China in the UN or a vote so close that it might foreshadow entry the following year, Mr. Martin said.

The General Assembly is expected to meet in November after the U.S. presidential election.

The 26,000 forest workers affected, members of the International Woodworkers of America, will vote on the settlement between Monday and June 8 and the majority vote will determine the union policy.

EMPLOYERS MUM

Forest Industrial Relations, bargaining organization for the employers, said it will issue no statement on the conciliation award until it has studied the conciliation proposal further.

The proposal, by B.C. government conciliation officer E. P. Fisher, calls for a 28-cent total in wage increases in a two-year contract.

TWO INCREASES

It calls for a 15-cent-an-hour increase effective June 15 and a further 13 cents effective June 15 next year. Journeymen tradesmen would get an additional 15-cent increase for total increases of 43 cents.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson has termed the proposal "a fair basis for settlement."

BALLOTS OUT MONDAY

An IWA statement last night said ballots will be sent out to local unions Monday by mail and must be returned not later than June 8.

Voting will be by secret ballot. The ballots will have two questions, so members can vote for or against acceptance of the conciliation award and for or against authorizing strike action should the union "fail to gain a satisfactory settlement."

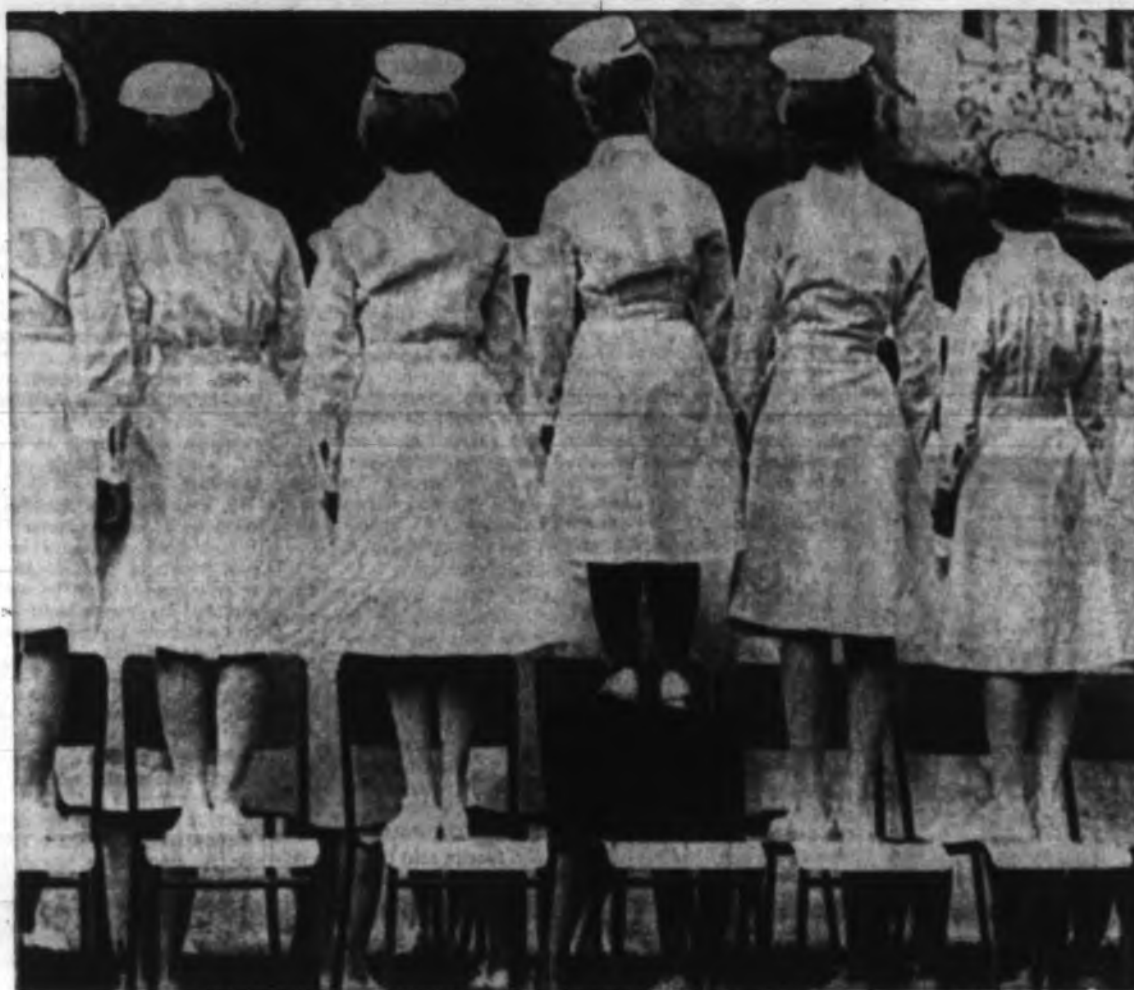

A union official said last night that the second question is in

Sudbury II Reaches Freighter

A Victoria-based deep-sea tug, Sudbury II, with skipper Harry Blagburne at the helm, took a disabled Peruvian freighter in tow yesterday and is heading towards the coast with her.

The 5,000-ton freighter Tal Hsing had lost her propeller and was drifting 200 miles south of the Aleutian Islands May 18.

Jet-Builder's Wife

KIDNAP ROCKS PARIS

Motive: Politics? Money or Secrets?

PARIS (UPI)—Three masked men early today kidnapped Madame Marcel Dassault, the wife of a leading Gaullist politician and builder of France's Mirage IV top-secret atomic bombers, police said.

Police said a nationwide dragnet immediately was launched for the gang that snatched the wealthy Paris society woman as she was returning home from a visit to friends.

Madame Dassault is in her fifties.

Police said the kidnappers were concealed in a light delivery truck from which they pounced upon Madame Dassault when her chauffeur-driven steel-gray Cadillac pulled up in front of her house.

BLUDGEON CHAUFFEUR

Police said one of the assailants threw open the door of the car and knocked the chauffeur unconscious with a pistol butt.

The raiders then forced Madame Dassault into a waiting Citroen limousine and drove off at high speed.

Her husband, National Assembly Deputy Marcel Bloch Dassault, a prominent financier and builder of the Mystere and Mirage warplanes, immediately alerted police Prefect Maurice Papon.

ROAD BLOCKS

The abduction took place shortly after midnight.

Papon promptly ordered police forces in Paris to establish road blocks and sent out radio cars.

Police forces cordoned off the area around the Dassault residence.

The delivery truck was abandoned by the attackers on the spot. Police found a black hat inside the driver's cabinet.

A police dog, which picked up the scent from the hat, lost the track of the assailants a few yards away—where they got into a high-speed car with their victim.

POLITICAL MOTIVE?

There was speculation of political motivations in the kidnapping.

The victim's husband was an old-time Gaullist who won the highest class Legion of Honor and medals for wartime resistance work for Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French movement.

Madame Dassault's abduction was the most daring kidnapping in France since April 12, 1960, when a group of kidnappers abducted the son of Roland Peugeot, heir to the Peugeot fortune.

The boy eventually was returned for a ransom of 50,000,000 (old) francs ($25,000) but police caught the kidnappers. They are serving long prison terms.

Dassault also is the owner of the illustrated weekly Jours de France.

Emergency Again In Guiana

GEORGETOWN (UPI)—British Guiana Governor Sir Richard Luyt Friday declared a state of emergency throughout the country following violence, arson and murder in the coastal sugar belt.

Luyt, who appealed for calm, also said he has asked for more British troops to help keep the peace.

This is the third time in three years a state of emergency has been called in the colony.

Boston

Fire Toll 29 Homes

BOSTON (AP)—A wind-fanned fire roared through two blocks in the Andrew Square section of Boston Friday, and in less than an hour 29 three-story dwellings were destroyed and 57 families were homeless.

Dozens of women fled their homes holding children, escaping the fire only with what they were wearing.

At the height of the fire at least 20 houses were roaring masses of flames.

HOMELESS IN SCHOOLS

Three schools in the area will be used to shelter the homeless families.

There were no fatalities reported, but at least eight persons were taken to hospital suffering burns or smoke inhalation. One fireman, overcome by smoke, was on the danger list.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately known.

Back Off, Reds Told

Might Expand Asia War—Rusk

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in one of the toughest U.S. warnings to date, Friday night told Red China that the war in South Viet Nam would be expanded if the Communists persisted in their course of aggression in southeast Asia.

Cambodia

Canadian Patrol Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has been looking at the possibility of the stationing of a United Nations patrol—to which this country might contribute—along the border between South Viet Nam and Cambodia, a highly placed source said Friday.

The government plans no definite moves in this regard until it has examined a definite proposal which presumably will come from the UN.

It is possible that a mere UN presence—a few observers—on the border would serve as well as a small UN force.

News Strike In Shooting

PANAMA CITY (Reuters)—Journalists, photographers and printers started a 24-hour strike here Friday in protest against the wounding of Escalacion Calvo, editor of the newspaper La Hora, who was shot in the street here Thursday. Accused of the shooting is Aquilino Boyd, the Panamanian ambassador to the United Nations.

"Leave your neighbors alone," said Rusk, warning Red China and Communist North Viet Nam—the backers of warfare in both Viet Nam and Laos.

NO WITHDRAWAL

Rusk ruled out withdrawal of U.S. aid or neutralization in a policy speech prepared for a meeting of the American law institute.

Among the alternatives the United States faced was expansion of the war in South Viet Nam. "This can be the result if the Communists persist in their course of aggression," Rusk said.

SMALL BOMBERS

Rusk's blunt statement followed disclosures by official sources that the United States may send the embattled government of Laos more small bombers to help it check the Communist drive in that country.

It was learned that portions of the U.S. Seventh Fleet were in the southeast Asian area yesterday when the Pentagon announced that a U.S. reconnaissance plane was hit by ground fire on a flight over turbulent Laos. But the plane returned safely with no injuries to crew members.

FROM CARRIER

It was reported unofficially that the plane was operating from a Seventh Fleet aircraft carrier, the Kitty Hawk.

VIENTIANE LAOS (UPI)—Neutralist Gen. Kong Le indicated yesterday he would ask the United States for direct military aid if the Communists do not halt their continuing offense and give back territory they have won.

The offensive was reported Friday to have captured Ban Tavang, last outpost defending the approaches to the Mekong River town of Pakxang, 80 miles east of Vientiane and on the border of Thailand.

In the Plain of Jars area 100 miles north of Vientiane, Royal Lao air force T28 planes launched desperate bombing and strafing attacks to save 1,200 trapped neutralist troops encircled by the Pathet Lao.

WITH OPERATIONS DO XA, Central Viet Nam (UPI)—Government troops attacking in the central Vietnamese highlands, have overrun the headquarters of a top Communist general and set back his strike plans by at least six months, Vietnamese commanders reported Friday.

But the elusive and shadowy Gen. Don, commander of Viet Cong guerrillas in the jungle-covered mountains 320 miles northeast of Saigon, escaped with the bulk of his forces, the commanders reported.

Defence Fails

Cheesed Maybe But Not Drunk

LONDON (AP)—Brian C. Kibblewhite declared Friday he was cheesed—not drunk—when found slumped at the wheel of his car by a policeman.

Kibblewhite, a 33-year-old book salesman, admitted in court that he had drunk five and-a-half pints of beer. But it wasn't the beer that knocked him out, he insisted. It was that confounded cheese he ate with it.

Kibblewhite's lawyer said his client was taking a drug prescribed by his doctor for a stomach condition.

"Medical research," said the lawyer, "has recently established that eating cheese produces an effect such as Mr. Kibblewhite was suffering when arrested."

"He had eaten rather a large quantity of cheese with his beer, and no warning had been given to him that it is unwise to eat cheese when taking this prescription."

Kibblewhite pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of drinks or drugs. But under the circumstances, his lawyer argued, it would be unfair to take away his driving licence.

Magistrate Kenneth Abbraclough pondered briefly.

"The prosecution," said the judge, "has established that the defendant had to be helped out of his car and that upon arrival at the police station he collapsed on the floor."

"In my opinion he had ingested not only too much cheese but too much alcohol."

Abbraclough fined Kibblewhite £20 and suspended his driver's licence for 12 months.

How Many Leaves—and When?

Flag Like Shell Game

OTTAWA (CP)—The maple leaf flag design chosen by the cabinet is developing into a cliff-hanger. (See also Pages 5, 17.)

And Prime Minister Pearson indicated in the Commons Friday that curiosity about the exact design won't be satisfied until the middle of next week.

For the second day, the prime minister left the Commons guessing about the design picked by the cabinet at a meeting Thursday.

There are rumors the number of maple leaves has shrunk from three to one.

The rumors seem to have arisen from Mr. Pearson's replies Thursday to Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur). Their exchange, at the tail-end of a series of flag questions, went this way:

"Does the flag design he has chosen have a maple leaf on it?" Mr. Fisher asked.

"Yes, Mr. Speaker," replied Mr. Pearson.

Does it have three maple leaves on it?" asked Mr. Fisher.

Mr. Pearson gave no reply. It has been generally assumed the number is three, largely on the basis of Mr. Pearson's publicly expressed "hankering" for three red maple leaves on a white ground with a vertical blue bar at the staff and fly edges.

Curiosity—in the Commons was unabated Friday. To oppose

A National Flag Plebiscite

Don't Leave It in Hands Of Politicians to Decide

Though the Daily Colonist takes the editorial stand that the Canadian Red Ensign should be retained as Canada's flag, it recognizes the right of every Canadian of voting age to express his personal and free views on the matter.

The Colonist firmly believes that the choice of a national symbol is something that cannot and must not be left in the hands of politicians to decide under partisan duress.

The only way to remove this issue from the realm of politics is for a national plebiscite to be held, in which every Canadian citizen can make his or her own decision known to the government.

Colonist readers who support this view are urged to complete the coupon form below. Simply clip it, sign it and enclose it in an envelope addressed to The Rt. Hon. Lester B. Pearson, House of Commons, Ottawa. No stamp is necessary.

Dear Prime Minister:

I am in favor of a national plebiscite to decide upon the selection of a Canadian national flag.

Reds Assail Stevenson

LONDON (Reuters)—The Soviet news agency Tass Friday accused the United States for rejecting Cambodian Prince Norodom Sihanouk's call for an international conference on Cambodian neutrality and said U.S. "aims and methods" were "the main source of tension" in Southeast Asia.

Tass commentator Vasily Kharikov was commenting on the speech to the United Nations security council Thursday by Adlai Stevenson.

NORMALIZATION

"Were the U.S.A. really striving for normalization of the situation on the (south) Vietnamese-Cambodian frontier, it would not have rejected hastily Prince Sihanouk's proposal for calling an international conference to work out guarantees of Cambodia's neutrality," Kharikov wrote.

Kharikov said that if the "aim of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia really was, as claimed by Stevenson, to 'restore peace,' it would be logical to expect the U.S.A. to take such steps as would remove the threat to peace in that region."

SAIGON (AP)—South Viet Nam accepted in principle Friday a proposal by Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, that an all-UN force be established to patrol the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border.

REAL CONTROL

But the strongman premier, Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh, told reporters: "I am interested in real control. Such a force would be worthless if not strong enough."

Stevenson made the proposal to the UN Security Council Thursday as one of three alternatives to keep peace on the border. The U.S. ambassador was discussing a Cambodian complaint that South Viet Nam and the United States have been guilty of aggression in border incidents this spring.

Witness Keeps Mum

SAN FRANCISCO—A research chemist now working in Richmond, Va., invoked the Fifth Amendment three times Friday in refusing to answer questions in the trial of two Californians charged with smuggling and selling the drug LSD.

Dr. James E. Grossman, a tobacco company research chemist, was called as a government witness in the trial of Bernard Cowley, 38, and Bernard Roseman, 30.

The government charges that the two sold lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD) manufactured in California in violation of the Federal Food and Drug Act. LSD is a vision-producing drug employed in experimental psychiatric treatment.

Opportunity Missed Centenary Being Used 'To Retain Mill Rate'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian cities, towns and villages should plan something more inspiring than new police stations and firehalls for Canada's centenary in 1967, centennial commissioner John Fisher said today.

"Too many communities are not being very imaginative in their intended use of centennial funds," he told a Kiwanis club luncheon.

The centenary should be celebrated with "lots of fun, fireworks and ceremonial—and attention to the serious side, too: our cultural enrichment, things of the spirit, and fostering Canadian unity."

"This is an opportunity to take stock of what we are and what we want to be. It should have the triple features of any birthday — congratulations on our achievements so far, a celebration of our present, and the traditional wish of many happy returns for the future.

"Too many communities are thinking of holding the mill rate by centennial grants. Too many municipalities see these grants as an opportunity to build essential services."

'Bi and Bi' Scorned

HAMILTON (UPI)—A report presented to a young Progressive Conservative conference here Friday suggested that the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism be scrapped.

The report, prepared by Dr. Phyllis Hanley and William Humphreys, said the commission was creating a wave of rest across Canada and could result in the breakup of confederation.

Parents Blamed By Jury

WINNIPEG (CP)—A coroner's jury Thursday ruled the parents of an eight-day-old baby, who died after being left in the care of their four-year-old daughter while they were out visiting, were negligent.

The jury was inquiring into the May 12 death of Alison Marie Vickery, daughter of Henry James Vickery, 40, and his wife, Adele Rae, 31.

OLDEST 4

Evidence showed the couple left the baby with their three other children, aged 4, 3 and 1, and on returning the father found the baby lying injured on a bed.

Rushed to hospital, the baby died about seven hours later.

The jury's verdict read, in part: "Death was caused from brain hemorrhage and skull fractures resulting from unknown means."

"We also find . . . that the parents . . . were negligent in leaving the children alone and without proper supervision during their absence."

IN CUSTODY

Donna Stone, Children's Aid Society social worker, testified she and another social worker went to the Vickery home May 12 and took the three children to the agency's office.

She said the two younger children were placed in foster homes. However, the four-year-old girl was admitted to the Children's Hospital psychiatric ward after examination.

Both parents are in police custody, charged with causing death by criminal negligence.

DVA Hospital Care

MR. GEORGE CHATTERTON says that according to his information there is not likely to be any change in the DVA hospital situation in this area. The Esquimalt-Saanich MP credits this to the feelings evoked here when the plan to turn these hospitals over to municipal administration was made known two months ago.

As developed subsequently, realization of the ratio of war veterans in this area put the local institution in a special perspective. Proportionately to population there are far more ex-servicemen here over 35 years of age than in most Canadian communities.

While the disposition of DVA hospitals is not yet settled there is the prospect therefore that Victoria will escape any axe the DVA administration has in mind.

It is worth noting that at its annual convention this week the Royal Canadian Legion did not unequivocally oppose the transfer of these hospitals where this seems appropriate in light of patient numbers. No more indeed did the Legion dissent unreasonably on the question of a national flag. The furor over Mr. Pearson's reception has tended to obscure the fact that the Legion, while itself strong in its preference for the Red Ensign, is willing to accept the result of a national plebiscite on the subject and made this plain to the prime minister.

Similarly the Legion is not holding to a blanket objection to the proposed DVA hospital changes but it has adopted a resolution asking for proper safeguards for the future care of all veteran patients and asks that it should be consulted before any irremediable steps are taken. This is an honest and eminently fair claim in a matter deeply affecting the welfare of ex-servicemen who suffer from the results of the hazards and hardships of active service.

It is the matter of control passing to foreign and less attentive hands that worries the veterans in this connection, the destruction of the special atmosphere of DVA hospitals which has been so valuable a therapy in the treatment of their patients.

The Legion does not object to sharing DVA institutions where there is bed space available for general admissions, but with some validity it fears that administration under other than DVA direction, which has proved efficient and sympathetic and won wide favor, would be detrimental to veteran care and lose the priority that is warranted.

In the hospitals specially created for the welfare of patients caught up in the aftermath of physical ailments due to their war service the ex-servicemen comes first. It is to retain this beyond dilution or unwelcome encroachment that the Legion makes its representations to the government, and one trusts these are given the thoughtful consideration they deserve.

Very Fair Trade

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S third International Trade Fair, which closes tonight at the PNE grounds in Vancouver, has physically been the largest of the series, and it has also been the one which appears to have been most successful from the exhibitors' point of view.

Trade Fair officials said at the close that several million dollars worth of business has been generated as a result of the exhibits and the contacts made by visiting business people.

For an exporting province like British Columbia, the International Trade Fair is a two-way impetus to business. It not only gives the B.C. consumer a chance of seeing the best of the world's products, but it also brings to the foreign exhibitors a closer understanding of the country of which they may already be valued customers.

In all 40 countries exhibited and the variety from mammoth industrial equipment to canned shrimps and spices impressed all those who attended.

One large B.C. forest industry firm bought a piece of machinery on show for $40,000; a British exhibitor was so impressed with the B.C. economy that he intends to stay here and set up business as an importer of the products he has been exhibiting.

One New Zealand firm has been successful in selling a wood-based hardboard to a B.C. firm, despite the fact that B.C. is itself a large exporter of such items.

Orders have come in from other parts of Canada than B.C. One German exhibitor sold $20,000 worth of capital equipment to an Alberta company.

The full benefits of an International Trade Fair are not felt immediately, but the initial response to the B.C. government's third venture into this field indicates that the effort made at the PNE grounds has been well worth while.

Canadian Odyssey

IN PAKISTAN, away from the turmoil of mundane earthly worries and reaching for the rarefied atmosphere of mountain pleasantries, a Canadian expedition has arrived seeking to conquer a Himalayan peak.

Mountaineers are eager souls, a special breed of men who find exaltation and challenge in the high heights that demand great and adventurous endeavor. They echo the famous Mallory answer to the question, "Why climb Mount Everest?" — "Because it is there."

Ever since ten years ago this supreme summit of the world was reached by Hillary and Tensing it was, like the breaking of the four-minute mile barrier, akin to opening a door to new and previously deemed impossible achievement. Everest itself was climbed again, and mountaineering teams from half a dozen nations have ranged the Himalayas to conquer most of the high reaches of this formidable series of mountains.

The eight-man Canadian attempt is the first of its kind in this area, and so this country has joined the climbing elite by seeking to ascend Hachindar Kich, a 23,000-foot peak yet unconquered. The highest peak is not always the most difficult, and if the venture succeeds this will be a "first" of no little merit.

It is pleasing to note also that two Vancouver Islanders are members of the Canadian group, which brings the Himalayas close to home with unusual interest. We wish the team every success.

Presumably also when in the final stage of the assault two members reach the top and plant the customary national flag there it will be the Red Ensign they hoist to proclaim the victory. Nor will the climb be easily or readily duplicated just to take it down and put a new emblem in its place.

CANADIAN PEACE CORPS PROPOSED...

Concern Over Cyprus

Bickering at NATO

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

THERE seems to have been a good deal more friction than usual at the meeting of ministers from the member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization just concluded in The Hague. This is an unusual development and should serve as a warning. In peace time particularly, alliances cannot be taken for granted.

One reason for this friction is the trouble in Cyprus. While that unhappy country is not a member of NATO the warring factions look for support to their respective homelands, Greece and Turkey; by agreement each of these nations has a small force of troops on the island, and the British, also by agreement, maintain there a military base which is the key point for the protection of all their interests in the Middle East.

The United States is involved as well with her strong Sixth Fleet stationed in the Mediterranean and Canada has come into the picture with troops serving in Cyprus. However, each of these nations has been ready to seize on any opportunity to make matters worse, is the Soviet Union.

No wonder the NATO ministers were concerned over Cyprus. In other days the antagonism between Greece and Turkey over this question would undoubtedly have led to war. The fact that both are members of NATO, and can talk the situation over with each other and with their allies within the NATO organization, has kept them from flying at each others' throats.

This is a good example of the value of the understanding and friendship built up among the NATO nations since that organization came into being some 15 years ago.

The Allies could have done little to prevent this trouble in Cyprus arising, but that is not true of another troublesome question which evidently caused dissension at the meeting. I refer to trade with Cuba.

Obviously the United States precipitated the argument on this question and endeavored to force a change of policy on the other 14 members—without much success. For a long time now the Americans have been trying to get rid of Premier Castro by an economic blockade. This policy has been followed by both Republican and Democratic governments and it contains considerable emotional content.

The fourteen other nations of the alliance have never believed that this policy would work; in fact they think it merely drives the Cubans into the hands of the communist countries. The wisdom of an embargo on trade in strategic goods has always been accepted and such an embargo has been maintained by them all throughout. Canada has gone further by refusing to allow any unauthorized American goods, strategic or otherwise, to be shipped to Cuba through Canada by United States suppliers.

Pressure on this question at the NATO ministerial meeting may have been motivated by political considerations in the United States, for after all the presidential election is drawing very near. In any event agreement on a trade embargo is unlikely.

The situation in Viet Nam is another source of trouble for the NATO ministers but on I believe all the member-nations except France are sympathetic to the United States. It will be remembered that the French made a complete reversal of their policy a few months ago by advocating that Viet Nam be neutralized.

Whether the other allies will

Today In History

Israel announced four years ago today—in 1960—the capture in Argentina by Israeli agents and secret transportation to Israel of Adolf Eichmann, 54, Nazi SS officer who directed the mass murder of Jews in wartime camps. He went on trial in Israel in 1961 and was executed about a year later.

go so far as to furnish forces or supplies to assist the Americans in Viet Nam is another matter. The country is far outside the NATO area and really should be the concern of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization known as SEATO. United States, Britain and France are the only members of SEATO which also belong to NATO.

Canada is in the clear on the question of aid to the Americans in Viet Nam for she is a member of the 3-nation Truce Supervisory commission for that country, and as such must not become involved in the fighting.

NATO was not formed to settle problems in other parts of the world. Its objective was to prevent communist aggression in the North Atlantic area and in doing this it has been eminently successful.

This task will remain until some satisfactory agreement is reached on arms control and disarmament and the attention of the allies should not be diverted to other areas. They have no shortage of problems in their own area—for example what is to be done about Berlin and the demand for re-unification of Germany?

If NATO concentrates on the objective for which it was set up there will be less bickering among the 15 member nations.

The Political Stars

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

INTO the intensely glaring heat of the public spotlight and under the unrelentingly pitiless pressure of the public business, the personal political fortunes of the cabinet ministers can be as swiftly changeable as those of television stars.

Any member of the cabinet—not excluding the prime minister himself—can be made or broken by his conduct in the Commons or his management of his own particular federal department.

Both the making and the breaking can be swift. A cabinet minister today can be up, up in the esteem and even affection of his political associates and perhaps the public too, glittering like a star on the stage of statecraft.

And next year, or month, or as soon even as tomorrow, he can be down, down, down, shuffled quickly and quietly into the parliamentary discard like some television performer with a suddenly cancelled contract.

Look what, in just the year, has happened to the Pearson cabinet. It was a "team."

The prime minister himself called it that.

And its stars were Justice Minister Pavreau, Labor Minister MacEachen, Finance Minister Gordon, Industries Minister Drury, State Secretary Lamontagne and Trade Minister Sharp.

They were billed, in advance, almost before performance, as the stars.

By the Liberals themselves, too, who, oddly, at that time pointedly omitted the prime minister from the stellar casting.

He was supposed to be "too soft," too easy, far too much of the "nice guy," as they described him, in measure up as fully as a prime minister should against such a demonstrably deadly old political foe as Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, bloodied in 25 years of battle in the Commons.

In the year, the one big star that has emerged on the Pearson team has been the prime minister himself. Now, beyond any question, he is the man in charge—in charge of the cabinet, if not of fast developing and perhaps rapidly changing political events.

He can even, at times, stand off John Diefenbaker in the slugging of the Daily Question Period, a talent previously the monopoly of External Affairs Minister Martin.

The other super-stars of advance billing?

Justice Minister Pavreau has failed calamitously as government House leader, allowing, instead, the hard-to-bridge opposition to take the bit in its teeth and often run away with the day's or even the week's—as in the Easter "holiday" sitting—parliamentary business.

Those two "in" members of the cabinet, Gordon and Lamontagne, who had the personal advantage of being "close" to the prime minister, have faded, and perhaps have survived only because of being Pearson cronies. Gordon has been downgraded if not destroyed by his own continuing budget troubles, and Lamontagne by his crashing failure to carry any weight for national unity in what apologists like to describe as the "quiet revolution" in Quebec.

MacEachen appeared weak too long in coming to grips with bluff "King" Hal Banks and terror on the Great Lakes, and since has appeared even weaker in allowing tough "Red" McLaughlin, described by the royal commission as another "hoodlum," to succeed him on the throne of the Seafarers International.

Drury, the man of such great pre-promise, has made no great mistakes simply perhaps, say his critics, because he has attempted nothing and done less.

Only Mitchell Sharp has come even close to living up to his advance billing. He remains the quiet, calm, coldly efficient trouble-shooter, who, more than any other member of the cabinet, soothes troubled Liberal nerves.

Out from the shadows—where they never should have been—have emerged Paul Martin and Transport Minister Pickersgill. They weren't among the "in" group, weren't buddy-buddy with the prime minister and so, in the early "blazing days of dynamic decision," weren't given star rating. But class will tell, in politics as in everything else, and their sheer ability, sure political instinct and a talent for "standing up to Dief"—increasingly important in this mule-stubborn Parliament—forced them into the ranks of the stars if not the "in" ring of court favorites.

Hottest find, though, has been Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing, an "old pro" from the West Coast who has become everyone's (except Quebec's) nominee as the cabinet minister most likely to succeed in smacking down Rene Levesque.

Tapping the Jordan

By SAMUEL BRITTON, From Haifa

ISRAEL'S Jordan water scheme, which was attacked by Mr. Khrushchev in Cairo last week, is not only one of the country's largest development projects; more than any other it symbolizes the aspirations, tensions and conflicts of the entire surrounding area.

The first tests of the new national water carrier have already begun. I was present to see some Jordan water in the new canal at the first pumping station high above Lake Tiberias (the Sea of Galilee). The water is to be pumped through this canal and into a series of tunnels on its journey to the parched southern part of the country.

The canal has a distinctive vee-shaped bottom and when I was there it contained only a little water which was not flowing. Pumping will be intermittent rather than continuous and will take place to a large extent at night when electric power is cheaper. The present tests will merge into full operation without any fuss by the time the dry summer season arrives.

Meanwhile the Israelis are taking no chances. The pumping operations are all underground and the canal is surrounded by barbed wire and military encampments.

There has been talk of Arab retaliation to divert the Jordan headstreams in Syria and Lebanon and so prevent the waters from ever reaching Israel. But any such scheme—quite apart from any adverse side effects of the Arabs themselves—would take a least two years and be very expensive. The Israelis do not believe that any such work has even begun, while their own project is all ready for the shooting.

Like most projects supercharged with national emotion, the Jordan water scheme is very expensive in relation to its benefits. The cost, now reckoned at $35 million, is twice the original estimate and the water conduit in the hills of Gilead has already been nicknamed the money conduit.

The director-general of the finance ministry said that the water was not really worth the price paid for it. It is defended rather as a means of "correcting nature" which has been so unfair in its distribution of water between north and south.

The present stage of the water carrier will provide Israel with an extra 180 million cubic metres a year. Even when all the 480 million cubic metres Israel claims it was allocated under the plan prepared by Mr. Erle Johnston, President Eisenhower's special representative, have been drawn, they will add only a small fraction to existing water resources.

The country's population is now 2,400,000 and is expected to reach about three million in 1970, four million in 1980, and Mr. Levi Eshkol, the prime minister, sees it rising to five million eventually. If this population is to be provided for, the Negev irrigated, and water-using industries developed, some completely new water sources will be required.

High hopes are placed here on the belief that science may be on the verge of a breakthrough in the desalinization of sea water on an economic basis. When Mr. Eshkol was asked about his forthcoming visit to President Johnson, he placed the president's offer to co-operate on the use of atomic energy for the conversion of sea water as his top priority, even before security. Compared with desalinization, the Jordan water issue looks very small indeed—certainly nothing for either side to fight a war about.

But suppose that this vision of cheap fresh water from the sea proves just another desert mirage, what then? Israel cannot starve nor turn away immigrants. All sorts of expedients will be necessary, for example the purification of sewage water. Above all, there will have to be a shift of emphasis away from agriculture towards industry and away from the Negev towards the north and the Tel Aviv coastal strip. This shift of emphasis would in any case pay in crude economic terms, as development is quite obviously biased towards the Negev and agricultural for perfectly understandable ideological and security reasons.

It would be a pity if the Jordan waters controversy reopened the arid old argument about Israel's absorptive capacity which has stirred up so much bad blood in the past. Natural resources make comparatively little difference to a sophisticated industrial community. Experts here quite correctly point out that Israel's future is as an exporter of high quality manufactured goods—skilled labor is relatively cheap in Israel and unskilled labor dear.

The big difference compared with my previous visit in 1959 is how much more normal the economy has become—it may even be approaching a balance of payments crisis when German restitution payments taper off in the next few years, but any such crisis will be of normal European dimensions and may involve reducing the increase in private personal consumption from 5 per cent a year per head to "a more sustainable rate." Israel can no longer be fairly described as a "kept" economy dependent on donations.

It is just this move towards normality which makes Israelis sensitive about the Arab boycott which has apparently deprived them of a number of important agreements with eastern firms. There is a bitter feeling among Israeli ministers that the British government has been weak and that British firms asking advice are not told that Britain is opposed to boycott but are advised something to the effect that "It's up to you." It is alleged that other governments, such as the Americans, are told by the Arabs to behave "more like the British." Whatever the facts, there is no denying the bitter feelings here.

Fulton:

Pearson Flag Move Causing Bitterness

NANAIMO—Provincial Progressive Conservative leader, Davie Fulton said Friday that because of the method used by Prime Minister Pearson his proposed national flag may become a divisive force rather than a unifying factor.

"On an issue which calls for a decision based on the widest possible measure of agreement, union and co-operation, Mr. Pearson has chosen to substitute a decision based on his personal taste, reinforced by an appeal to partisan policies," he told a meeting of the Progressive Conservative Women's Association.

"It is not simply a matter of whether you want the Red Ensign or not... there are many hundreds of thousands who are going to feel that here is a design for a national flag that is forced on them."

Mr. Fulton said "bitterness and profound division" already have appeared.

In an opening speech, Lyn Morrow, president of the women's group, said the association stood behind "the Red Ensign and its deeper meaning."

Statement Due Soon On Education Centres

A statement on the department of education's stand on adult education centres will be issued early next week by Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

The minister met trustees yesterday afternoon to discuss a brief presented by the Greater Victoria school board some months ago on the need for an adult education centre.

Both board and government announced plans last year for a vocational centre and the two plans proved to be in conflict.

The board presented a brief stressing the importance of its plan which involved more localized training than that of the department's.

Trustees and minister yesterday agreed to withhold comment on the meeting, during the week-end.

Socialists to Rip Pearson Flag

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The Socialist League of Canada will rip down Prime Minister Pearson's proposed flag and replace it with the Union Jack, according to the league's leader, Tom Bridges.

Road Job Inspired New Flag?

Several theories have been advanced why Prime Minister Pearson chose his maple leaf flag, lower picture, but it seems obvious to many Victorians where the idea sprouted from—and that is the streets of this city. Replace the construction flags above with maple leaves, the prime minister probably said to himself, and you have Canada's new flag. At least that's what photographer Ian McKinn saw through his viewfinder.

To Aid Tourist Bureau

Special Week Studied For Public to See Sights

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

An open house week, intended partly to acquaint Victoria area residents with the tourist attractions of their own area, is under consideration by the Victoria Visitors Bureau.

The proposal, intended mainly to raise funds from the bureau for the public, was outlined at a meeting of bureau directors yesterday by Nicholas North, chairman of the bureau's membership committee.

FURTHER STUDY

It was referred back to his committee and the bureau executive for further study. Several of those at the meeting had serious doubts about the feasibility of the proposal. As outlined by Mr. North, books of tickets would be sold and the tickets would admit the holder to various attractions any time in the seven-day period specified.

Several suggestions were made for varying this scheme. TIME ELEMENT

Mr. North said the week should be before July, but other directors said it should wait until fall or later.

Bernard Cox, chairman of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist industry group, said an intensive campaign to sell daffodil lapel emblems in connection with the Victoria Spring Flower Festival had produced only 8,000 sales to the public.

MORAL SUPPORT

He said the sale of open house tickets would be, in effect, asking the general public to give "moral support" to the bureau and reaction to the daffodil sale indicated the likelihood of such support is small.

He said that, in the past, some tourist attractions have offered free admission to the public on certain occasions and the response has been small.

WHO FIRED ANOTHER?

FBI DENIES CLAIM

Mayor Hammer

Filling Gap Tough Job

PORT ALBERNI—Conceding for the first time there is little chance Ottawa will increase its $250,000 grant, Mayor Les Hammer indicated yesterday the task of raising needed funds for tidal-wave victims is almost impossible.

He said local officials have raised about $400,000 for the Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund through voluntary donations and "it is hardly likely they can duplicate this effort."

"It would have been far easier for the senior governments to produce the needed several hundred thousand dollars," he said. "It will be a struggle to collect from voluntary contributions the necessary amount to pay disaster victims the remaining 25 per cent of assessed damage."

Mayor Hammer continued: "Nevertheless, it looks as though this responsibility has once more fallen on the shoulders of the disaster committee, especially the two mayors and councils and the local MP and MLA."

NO SMALL ORDER

"It looks as though we have to raise as much again as we've already raised and this is no small order," he said. "Even if we are successful, this merely provides the remaining 25 per cent of assessed loss and does not take into account replacement values."

In addition to the school annual, the Mount View Scribe, will be dedicated to the graduate.

The destroyer-escort HMCS Skeena will leave Esquimalt Tuesday for Halifax, where she will be equipped with variable depth sonar equipment, and a hangar and flight deck for use by anti-submarine helicopters, a navy spokesman said yesterday.

Olavi Sarakannas has won the Victoria and district chess championship for the second year in a row, officials of the Victoria City Chess Club announced yesterday. Al Holmnecht placed second while Charles Birch and Karl Loschmink must play off for third spot.

The president of Kiwanis International will tour Victoria area Kiwanis projects today and speak to members of 30 Kiwanis Clubs from Vancouver Island and the lower mainland tonight. Charles Swain of Cape May, New Jersey, will arrive on the MV Coho at 1 p.m. today. He will tour Victoria and the Butchart Gardens Sunday.

The mayor indicated the main hope is help from the B.C. and Winnipeg flood funds of some 15 years ago, which still have about $2,600,000 in the kitty.

OTHERS GET PAID

The next big job, said Mayor Hammer, is to pay cheques to other communities. So far, 75 per cent cheques have been paid only in the Alberni, with all but 40 of the cheques picked up as of last night.

He said the writing of the cheques for the other 25 per cent must be left for "some uncertain future date."

In Parksville, the Mount Arrowsmith Legion branch has announced a $500 donation from its poppy fund to Alberni Valley veterans who took losses.

VETERANS HIT

The legionnaires have learned 30 veterans are affected and some on low pensions were seriously impoverished.

In Ucluelet, eight groups are sponsoring a dance and evening of entertainment in the recreation hall tonight, with proceeds going to the disaster fund.

Mac-Powell Strike

Settlement Hope Dim

A statement by Labor Minister Peterson last night indicated an early settlement is unlikely in the strike of 60 office workers which has idled 2,700 workers in Alberni and Port Alberni.

Mr. Peterson, speaking shortly after mayors of the Twin Cities appealed for his help, said there does not appear to be common ground for agreement.

He said he and officials of his department have been in touch with the various unions and MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River in an effort to solve the dispute.

"It can only be done by voluntary agreement," he said, "and at the moment there does not appear to be common ground in which such agreement can be arrived at."

Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni and Mayor Les Hammer of Port Alberni, in a telegram yesterday afternoon, asked Mr. Peterson to seek a solution and pointed out the labor trouble threatens an economy already hit hard by the Good Friday tidal wave.

Executives of the IWA, pulp and sulphite, paper workers and electricians' unions also appealed to Mr. Peterson to intervene in what they called an "explosive situation."

Plea by Mayors

The mayors used the same phrase in their telegram, which said in part:

"Strike has closed pulp and paper mill, two major sawmills, shingle mill and plywood mill. Added to disastrous devastation of recent tidal wave, this seriously threatens the economy of this area."

"Your assistance in preventing explosive situation and averting prolonged shutdown with resultant great hardship would be greatly appreciated."

Only the small Tachis mill still is operating after the Office Employees' International Union, Local 15, put up informational picket lines at Mac-Powell installations.

Pickets appeared at the Somass sawmill Thursday afternoon, the plywood plant at midnight Thursday, and the Alberni Pacific division sawmill at 7 a.m. yesterday.

The company charged all four other unions were staging an illegal strike by honoring the picket lines.

Workers at the Somass sawmill claimed their plant was using "hot" steam produced at the pulp plant, where the office workers went on strike Thursday.

The company confirmed the steam boilers had been operated by non-union supervisory staff.

Meanwhile, William Lowe, office union international vice-president, denied a Mac-Powell claim that it pays the same office salary scales as its competitors.

Picture Reunites Monkey, Owner

A lost monkey has been returned to its owners after they recognized his picture in yesterday's Colonist.

The monkey business started Thursday morning when Ronald Corbett, 246 Florence Lake Road, found the small animal on his doorstep.

He told the Colonist about it, which in turn told its readers.

One of the readers was a man described only as Mr. Hodggett. He and his family were moving in about half a block from the Corbett's home when their pet monkey became frightened and ran away.

It was missing for two days before "finding" the Corbetts, but now it's back snug and happy in its new home.

Armed, Delirious

Chase on High Seas Nabs Murder Suspect

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—A sea chase that spanned the Gulf of Mexico ended Friday when the Coast Guard intercepted a shrimp boat on the high seas and took custody of its lone crewman, an armed and delirious man suspected of killing the captain.

The suspect, identified as Henry Weaver, piloted an erratic course across the Gulf, trying to ram vessels that ventured near him and occasionally sending incoherent radio messages.

FADING SIGNALS

Boarding of the shrimp-boat, the Golden Net, took place in the Gulf about 200 miles southwest of here, but details of the capture were lost in fading radio signals.

The Coast Guard cutter Swift Point took the shrimp-boat in tow.

An FBI agent was aboard the Swift Point to serve Weaver officially with a murder warrant.

CUTS OVER THE EDGE

Lumber Industry Now Near Peak

By HARRY YOUNG
Columnist Business Editor

The size of the lumber industry on the B.C. coast may be nearing its peak according to L. L. G. Bentley, newly-elected chairman of the Council of the Forest Industries of B.C.

Mr. Bentley, vice-president of Canadian Forest Products Ltd., told members of the Council, "We can no longer make greater use of our mills simply by processing more logs, because under sustained yield we are using all of the allowable cut. Technological improvements, while still possible, will not continue to match those of the last few years."

Mr. Bentley's opinion was that the industry had reached its ultimate on the coast, and was heading for a similar state of affairs in the interior. Increasing competition in world markets for forest products are also likely to be met in the next few years.

This would come chiefly from Russia, which had the greatest forest resources in the world, and which Mr. Bentley forecast it would develop rapidly to earn foreign exchange to pay for its food and other products.

Russia was said to be planning an expansion of $500,000,000 a year in its pulp exports, and Mr. Bentley said to meet this threat, the B.C. industry must watch its production costs very carefully.

NO PROFIT IN BRAZIL

The difficulties encountered by foreign companies doing business in Brazil was pin-pointed by the 1963 report of the Brazilian Traction Light and Power Company.

The big Canadian-controlled utility company showed a net loss of $1,334,432, equal to 7 cents a share. This compared with a net profit of $1,246,163 (7 cents a share) in 1962.

The company report showed that the loss in earnings was caused by the change in the exchange rate of the cruzeiro, which had increased to 1,300 to the U.S. dollar from 620 a year ago.

If the cruzeiro had remained constant, Brazilian Traction's 1963 net income would have been increased by $5,505,755.

The failure of the Bank of Brazil to provide dollars for which Brazilian Traction subsidiaries have paid cruzeiros created added difficulties, said the report. The delayed deliveries to BT totalled $11,188,008.

FORD LOOKS AHEAD

Henry Ford II, grandson of the founder of the Ford Motor Company, expects North American car production figures to rise to 10,000,000 cars a year within the next decade.

This year they look like reaching about 8,200,000 units. To prepare for this expansion Ford is going to spend $1,000,000,000 on new capital expenditures during the next three years.

United Accumulative Fund Ltd., which holds about 20,000 of 400,000 Gas Trunk shares, argued at the meeting that Westcoast was depriving minority shareholders of their rightful financial return.

The writ seeks to quash the deal and obtain an injunction preventing any cancellation of rights now held by Gas Trunk.

FREE TO APPLY
Unless the writ is granted Westcoast is free to apply to the National Energy Board for permission to build a 220-mile, 36-inch pipeline between Chetwynd and Fort Nelson.

Gas Trunk had originally proposed the project.

MAJORITY SHAREHOLDERS
Westcoast, with 210,000 shares, is the majority shareholder in Gas Trunk, a company originally owned by all the producers in the northern B.C. gas fields. Westcoast has been buying up shares from the others.

In return for rights to build the $90,000,000 project, Westcoast is to issue one share of its stock for each share of Gas Trunk. Both are trading around $19.

Flying Reptile
Fossil Claimed

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China claimed its paleontologists have found the first fossils of the pterosaur, an extinct flying reptile, dating back about 100,000,000 years. They were discovered in Sinkiang last summer, the New China news agency said in a broadcast monitored here.

EDMONTON, Alta. (UPI)—A 46-year-old Winnipeg man pleaded guilty to 10 charges of arson when he appeared in magistrate's court.

Easy Access Must Wait

Easy public access to Botanical Beach will not be available to the public for a year or so, even though use of a plank road to walk to the beach would not impede logging operations.

"The road has been used for years by people walking to the beach, even though it is badly rutted and often unsafe," said an official of the parks branch who accompanied Recreation and Conservation Minister Kiernan to the beach Thursday.

He said the present owner of the land on which the old road is built feels he would be liable for any injuries incurred by people using the road, but apparently the previous owner did not feel this way.

The beach came into the news recently when it was announced that logging operations in the area would restrict access to it by sea or by a three-mile hike through swampy bushland.

FEARS RAISED
News of the operation raised fears that scenic and scientific qualities of the beach would be damaged by the operations.

Earlier, Mr. Kiernan said another foreshore reserve is being obtained by the provincial government to protect the beach.

The parks branch man said that some part of the beach may be used by a nearby logging operation, but the key feature will not be infringed on at all.

"We are obtaining an additional 1,500-foot foreshore reserve that will protect some of the botanical features, and some limestone formations," said Mr. Kiernan.

He said the logging company has spent $40,000 to $50,000 on the road, but he and the parks official had trouble getting through even in a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

"The question of access is going to remain difficult until those people get through logging," said Mr. Kiernan, "but as soon as the logging operations are wound up, there will be no problem."

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Nothing else matters to a man except what he believes. "Belief" means "by life," so belief fashions all life. Belief drives men mad, as Nietzsche went mad. Belief makes men heroes, like Tyndale and Huss. As Chesterton said, in choosing a landlady first inquire about her faith regarding the universe.

Belief matters to a man himself, to his family, his community, and his world. It is tragic that so many people—especially young people—think that it does not matter what a man believes. This is more than mental laziness, more than a commentary on decline of religious faith. It is an indictment of the superficial, pointless nature of our education.

Faith Matters

If such people would think for just a minute (so few do think!) they would see that Hitler's racial faith and consequent genocide policies mattered tremendously. The Communist faith matters very much too. On a Yalta beach my wife gave a two-year-old child a shiny one cent piece stamped with the image of King George. The child beamed: "Lenin? Lenin?" At the Lenin Shrine in Moscow 20,000 people passed by daily, many of them young, with hats off, "no smoking, no talking," and emerged often weeping. Doesn't it matter?

Each Different

Doesn't it matter what the Chinese believe? The Hindu faith created India; the Moslem faith made Egypt; the Hebrew faith formed Palestine; the Puritan faith made the United States; the Presbyterian faith made the Scottish people the best educated on earth.

Medieval faith produced a unit of all life. Medieval man was attached to a society, a monastery, or a feudal organization. The Renaissance man was an individual, devoted to personal fame. In early Renaissance painting the light came from outside the central figure; in later Renaissance light was generated from within, from the characters themselves.

Divine Right

Every religion produces a different kind of culture and character. Faith in "the Divine Right of Kings" produced despotism; faith in "the Social Contract," the right of people to life, liberty, property, the pursuit of happiness, and rebellion in event of breach of contract, led to democracy.

The Confucian family centred in the father and eldest son, Hindu families revolved about the older women. Moslems believe in polygamy and the overlordship of man, Roman Catholics believe in monogamy and don't believe in divorce. Communist families are state-orientated.

Of course it has to be a real faith, not "faith in someone else's faith." It cannot be second-hand or hearsay faith. "This I saw and knew," said Handel after he wrote the Messiah. "We behold His glory," said John. This is the kind of faith I am talking about.

Vatican Approves New Bible Edition

LONDON—Work on the preparation of a Roman Catholic edition of a best-selling Protestant Bible is to start in the next few weeks.

Its publication, with the full approval of the Holy Office in Rome, will mark a major step towards a common Bible for Christians of all denominations.

The last obstacle to the project, which has been promoted by a group of British scholars for the past 11 years, was surmounted last week when the Vatican gave its approval.

The way is now clear for the Most Rev. Gordon Gray, Roman Catholic Archbishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, to give his imprimatur to the new edition.

A list of Roman Catholic revisions of the New Testament, covering only four quarto-sized sheets of typescript, has already been completed. The brevity of the revisions illustrates the narrowing gap between Roman Catholic and Protestant approaches to modern biblical scholarship.

The Roman Catholic edition will be based on the American Revised Standard Version, the work of an interdenominational group of Protestant scholars. The new volume will be published by the Scottish firm, Thomas Nelson and Sons, which brought out the original Revised Standard Version in 1952.

Work on a Roman Catholic edition of the R.S.V.'s Old Testament is already well advanced and should be finished soon after the publication of the New Testament.

Negro Moderator Plans Campaign for Civil Rights

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The first Negro moderator in the history of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States says one of his primary concerns is to bring the full resources of the church to bear for passage of the civil rights bill.

"One who belongs to a minority has a kind of special understanding of what happens—and this is my only special talent in helping our church fulfill its responsibility," Rev. Edler G. Hawkins said Thursday at Oklahoma City.

The new moderator is 35, pastor of St. Augustine Presbyterian Church in the Bronx and a native New Yorker. His election underlined the militant role the leaders of the United Presbyterian Church have taken against racial discrimination.

Meanwhile, southern Baptists meeting in Atlantic City, N.J., rejected a proposed stand approving integration in their churches and voted to leave racial problems to local churches.

Thug Shoots Teller, Flees

REGINA (CP)—City police and RCMP Friday night searched for a man who shot a teller in the leg with a revolver and escaped with $5,000 to $10,000 from a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

The teller, 19-year-old James Stephenson of Regina, is in hospital in good condition. Bank manager R. G. Carter said the bandit fired two shots, stuffed money into a brown paper bag and fled.

Youth Jailed For Theft

Magistrate William Oetler yesterday sentenced a 17-year-old youth to one year definite and six months indefinite imprisonment for car theft, and a claim, he could not look upon the youth as a "victimized child."

John Thompson, 1145 Woodstock, had been on parole for dangerous driving and during his parole had stolen a car.

Thompson's lawyer, George Gregory, said the youth had been charged with dangerous driving, a serious offence, and could have been charged with taking a car without the owner's consent this time, as he was a young man.

Mr. Gregory said Thompson "should have been treated with proper understanding by the police, and perhaps the prosecutor."

Magistrate Oetler said he could not look at the case in that light.

"This was your own fault," he told Thompson, "and you know it."

"Hot goods" were introduced in magistrate's court yesterday during a trial for breaking and entering and theft. Gerald McCawley, Metcho-

Victoria Named as Site Of New Denture Clinic

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plans to establish denture clinics at various centres in British Columbia were announced Friday by the College of Dental Surgeons of B.C.

College president Dr. W. P. Munie said the first three clinics will be established in downtown Vancouver, in the Burnaby-New Westminster area and in Victoria.

The clinics will be headed by dental surgeons who will supervise the work of trained personnel—for a fee.

Dr. Munie said the decision to establish the clinics was taken as a result of the danger to dental health presented in recent years by the operations of "un-trained" persons in the dental field.

Health Minister Martin told the college's convention that the question of provision of dentures to the public by dental mechanics is one of the most complex, perverse and contentious issues with which the government has had to deal.

"I'm sure we haven't seen the end of it," the minister said, "because of the belligerent determination on the part of the contributing parties to stubbornly refuse to face reality and get down to a basis on which harmonious relationships could be developed and the provisions of the law adhered to."

Oak Bay's Big Team Effort Nails Down Track Honors

By JIM TAYLOR

Oak Bay High School has quite a track team—and put the accent on the word team.

The individual championships went elsewhere—three to Vic High and one to Mount Douglas—but the Oak Bay team kept piling on the points to win the city high school track and field meet for the second straight year.

TWO HURT

Going into the six relay events Oak Bay had only a 5½-point edge over a pressing Vic High, and two members of the Oak Bay relay squad, Rick Humber and Rick Higgins, were out with pulled muscles. But the Bays were equal to the challenge.

They won the first five relays and placed third in the last to finish with 181½ points. Vic High had 160½, followed by Esquimalt with 85½, Mount Douglas with 55½, Mount View with 40½ and Claremont with 23.

HANDICAP TITLE

Handicap championship, with handicap points awarded on the basis of school population, went by reversion to Victoria High, second in total to Oak Bay. Esquimalt was third, Mount Douglas fourth, Mount View fifth and Claremont sixth.

It was an interesting meet, although the times were not spectacular. You could applaud the muscular running of Vic High's Ron Stubbings as he retained his senior aggregate championship, or admire the timing of Oak Bay's Bob Lundine in his move to win the senior half mile, but mainly it was a good meet because the races were close if unspectacular.

RECORD TIMES

Senior aggregate winner Vicki Sargent of Vic High set the only individual record, running the 220 in 26.8 seconds to break the mark of 27.2 she set last year. The day's other record fell to the Oak Bay senior girls' 440 relay team, timed in 32.5 seconds compared to the old time of 33.4.

Janice Newton of Mount Douglas won the junior girls' aggregate championship, and Cliff Ridley of Vic High took the junior boys' award.

LATE STARTER

And for sheer determination, meet Robert Masters of Claremont.

Masters was sitting on the infield putting on his shoes when he saw the start of the junior mile, an event in which he happened to be entered. He leaped to his feet and took off, well behind the rest of the field, came on to finish third, but was disqualified for cutting across the infield on one turn.

His explanation for the short cut was simple.

"I lost 10 seconds back there at the start," he told an official. "Don't the two cancel out?"

FOOTBALL signings by the handful yesterday. Saskatchewan Roughriders grabbed holdovers Bob Plack and Larry Dumelle and Montana State halfback Will Fennell; George Fleming and Ray Ash returned to Winnipeg Blue Bombers, and Ottawa Rough Riders have grabbed two new linemen, guard Greg Van Orden of Appalachian State University and Ray Lard, a tackle from University of Miami. Badminton Fans Riot

TOKYO (AP)—Indonesian flashes were bothering the Danish fans at the world badminton championships rioted Friday. When tournament officials tried to stop them from flashing photo lights at Danish contestants playing Indonesia for the title, Indonesian retained its world crown 5-3.

About 100 Indonesians, mostly students, swarmed out from the stands and clashed with police after officials told them the flashes were bothering the Danish players, Erlend Kops and Henning Borch.

Play was suspended about 20 minutes until police got the Indonesians to calm down. No injuries or arrests were reported.

And Two Singles

Captain Willie Whacks No. 17

By CANADIAN PRESS

Willie Mays hit his 17th homer, one of four hit by San Francisco Giants, as the National League leaders clubbed Pittsburgh Pirates 8-3 Friday night.

Mays, making his debut as team captain, also collected two singles for a 3-for-5 performance in the Giants' 16-hit attack, boosting his average to .405 and regaining the batting lead from Chicago's Billy Williams.

BASES EMPTY

Mays' homer came with the bases empty in the sixth inning. Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda hit consecutive homers in the third as the Giants took cago White Sox to a 3-1 victory over Washington Senators.

The 27-year-old southpaw, becoming the circuit's winningest hurler, at one stretch retired 11 batters in a row, five by strikeouts. He didn't walk a batter.

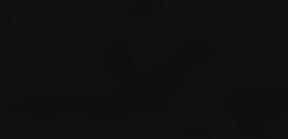

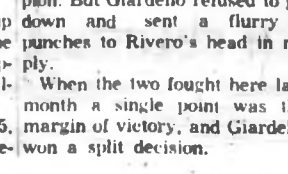

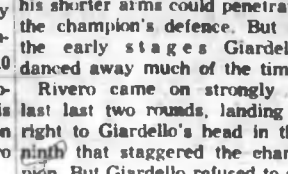

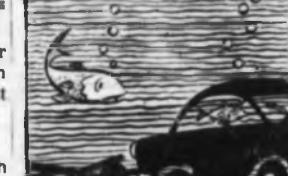

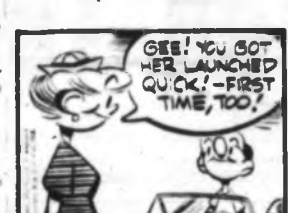

HIGHEST TOTAL

Pizarro's strikeout total is the highest for one game in the majors this season. Al Downing, Juan Marichal and Sandy Koufax each struck out 13 previously.

In other AL games, Cleveland Indians won over Detroit Tigers 5-3, New York Yankees nipped Los Angeles Angels 4-3.

FAN FARE

By Walt Dittus

Kansas City edged Boston Red Sox also 4-3 and Baltimore Orioles beat Minnesota Twins 6-5.

In the National League, Ken Boyer and Julian Javier cracked homers in support of Curt Simmons' three-hit pitching as St. Louis Cardinals defeated Milwaukee Braves 6-1.

In other NL games, New York Mets edged Houston Colts 2-1, and Chicago Cubs whipped Cincinnati Reds 9-1.

ERRORS HELP YANKS

Errors by Jim Fregosi and Billy Moran paved the way for three unearned runs as the Yankees defeated the Angels.

Rocky Colavito's 12th home run, a towering drive over the left field screen with two men on, lifted Kansas City to their victory over Boston.

The drive, which erased a 2-1 Red Sox lead, enabled the Athletics to snap a six-game losing streak. It was only the second loss in seven starts for Boston.

UNEARNED RUNS

Simmons, a crafty southpaw who was 25 three days ago, received all the runs he needed when Boyer homered with a man aboard in the first.

Cardinals added two unearned runs in the sixth.

Frank Thomas' two-run double in the eighth inning gave the Mets the edge over Houston in the first 1964 meeting of the two teams. The victory ended a three-game losing streak for the Mets.

The Cubs, shut out on two hits for five innings by Joe Nuxhall, erupted for seven hits and eight runs in the sixth inning and went on to their lopsided victory over Cincinnati.

A couple of mental lapses by the Reds helped the Cubs' rally.

Problem Beds

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES

I wrote a piece earlier this month about a problem flower bed out around the front of our house—a strip 40 feet long but only 16 inches wide, bordering our driveway—and of our search for suitable bedding plants to furnish it. Nowadays we alternate with dwarf scarlet salvia one year and dwarf bedding petunias the next; this is a petunia year and our choice for 1964 is White Satin, which should make a grand display, especially by moonlight.

Since that article appeared in print, I have had quite a few letters from readers reporting similar problem beds, but on the north side of the house, and here the complicating factor is not so much awkward dimensions as sheer lack of sunshine.

None of the ordinary annual flowers will perform well in sunless locations, for the very nature of an annual demands that it be a plant which must germinate, grow to maturity, bloom, set seed and die all in the short space of one single growing season, and to develop at such a high rate of speed requires ample sunshine.

Dwarf blue lobelia and white or mauve sweet alyssum can get by with rather less sunshine than most annual bedding plants, but these are rather colorless plants by themselves. Their proper use is as edging plants to provide a low border of contrasting color around a bed of taller flowers.

I have this problem in a tiny bed bordering the well leading to our basement entrance. It is on the north-west side of the house and gets no sun at all until nearly four o'clock in the afternoon, and even this isn't undiluted sunshine, for there are tall trees nearby. This looked to me like a good spot for pansies, but evidently pansies need more sun than I could provide, for the plants grew straggly and unattractive. Forget-me-nots, too, became too tall and floppy.

Violas did a lot better for me, and we had a grand display one year with an apricot-colored variety called Chantrelle which lit up the rather gloomy site like a ray of sunshine. Another year we used Viola Scottish Yellow, with flowers almost as big as pansies. Like pansies, violas do best when plenty of leafmould is incorporated in the soil.

Tuberous begonias do well in shade and we use them extensively in the tree-shaded portions of our garden, but plants of the ordinary kinds are too big for my tiny problem bed, only 10 feet long and a foot wide. Multiflora begonias proved ideal, though, making compact low mounds covered with a profusion of small but fully double flowers, and some good kinds are Le Flamboyant in scarlet. Ami Jean Bard with copper-colored blooms and Mrs. Richard Galle in salmon pink. The bulbs run from 25 cents to 35 cents each.

I lost my multiflora bulbs in their second year through storage rot, so the following year they were replaced with fibrous-rooted begonias, purchased as started plants on the point of bloom, and these put on an even better show than the multiflora, although they cost the earth and have to be replaced every spring.

Actually, the most satisfactory bedding plant I have found for this situation is Impatiens, which is an outdoor version of the familiar house-plant Busy Lizzie. I used a very dwarf variety called Orange Baby, making a mound only 6 inches tall and 10 inches across and with very bright orange blossoms, blooming continually all summer. Other varieties are Scarlet Baby, Pink Baby, Little Red Riding Hood with orange-scarlet blooms, and Beauty of Klettgau in fiery scarlet.

The Cost Is the Miracle

If you go to business luncheons ("One more and then we'll order")—you get a pretty fair idea of the miracles of modern medicine.

At business luncheons, everybody lays out his pills BEFORE he orders a martini. Pills are getting prettier, have you noticed that?

They are pouce-cake pills—stacked in layers of pink, green, blue and black. Each color is fused to go off at a different time. You are rocking from the melted green when whammo! The pink starts to fizz in your intestines.

Thus medicine has come a long way. The wedding of chemicals and thoughtful packaging.

"The yellow and red jobs have done me a world of good," says the lunching gent. "Used to be I took those blue blockbusters. Then this new man—right out of Mayo's—put me onto these. Well, here's how."

No wonder they call them miracle drugs. The other day, the U.S. Congress put the pill rollers over the jumps. How come, asked the Congressmen, that pills cost so much? A pill that costs 50 cents a capsule is not unusual. There are places that still sell a martini for that. And give you free whacks at cheese and crackers on the side. The pill people said the cost was NOT in the little, old pill. It was in research. They said they had people working night and day. Feeding pills to rats so they could turn out more miracles.

They said: "The cost of this research must be spread to the price of the eventual product."

I think an added cost (which nobody looked into) is the art work. You cannot get good art work without going to the ad agencies.

The ad agency people hold business luncheons. To get at the "packaging problem."

This is expensive. Because all these people have to take pills themselves. To stand the luncheon. To stand the martinis. Maybe to stand each other.

Thus the whole thing snowballs. And pills go up and up.

I myself have had a go at these pills of many colors. But cannot see that they did me any more good than the stuff grandma gave me when I was young.

No fancy packaging was wanted on me when I was a gloomy youth. When we got sick, grandma packaged up castor oil in orange juice.

"Hold your nose and drink it straight down," she said sternly.

She stood right over us until we did it, too. Although we swore we would take it later.

"Feed a cold and starve a fever," she said.

If we got REALLY sick, they called in a doctor. Doctors came to the house in those days.

You had to be mighty sick to go bothering a doctor. Everything else we cured at home.

The doctor did not even give pills. He had some white powder, packaged up in folded paper.

He said: "Give him one after every meal."

Let me tell you, that powder tasted bad. We got well in a hurry. If the doctor could pull that stuff out of his black bag on the first try, we did not want him to try again.

Grandma made you open your mouth. She poured the powder on the back of your tongue and then jammed your jaws closed. Awful!

The pre-martini pills are tasteless. They are pretty and go down like olives.

They are so good—so good for you—that we pay 50 cents apiece for them. That is the miracle.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Divorce Garland-Style

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—The Judy Garland divorce hassle with Sid Luft has only just started. But then it always has. And just as she is about to get her freedom, she makes up. However this time her chums are saying, "Never."

Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton caused the usual excitement when they appeared at ABC-TV in New York to tape their appearance for the NAACP freedom spectacular at Madison Square Garden. Colored star Baby Dee, at the same taping, was saying, "I hope we don't get to hate the Whites before they get to like us."

Did you catch that oldie on the late, late show? Taza, it was called. Rock Hudson played an Indian. Jeff Chandler was his father, another Indian, natch. And Barbara Bush, a shy Indian maid. It was interesting to see poor old Jeff, but that was about all.

Leni Riefenstahl, Hitler's dream actress-athlete of the 30s has been getting away from all those trials of Nazis in Germany by living with a jungle tribe in the Sudan.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., all recovered from that scandal case in London last summer, is tossing his bowler into the ranks of the independent film producers. He has been talking to Marty Lunden about joining Deborah Kerr in his comedy, The Ghost Needs Another Crumpet. What I say is let sleeping crumpets lie.

Mitzi Gaynor doesn't get too many movie offers from Hollywood, which is silly. But in London she can name her own terms for anything. Her South Pacific film is still showing there after seven years. The Palladium wants her for the fall. And the BBC wants her for a one-woman show.

Sophia Loren would like to make a movie with James Garner and that should not be too difficult if the brains at Metro get to work. Jim Hutton who made all those nice comedies with Paula Patton is investing some of his movie money in Puerto Vallarta property. He can't buy, according to Mexican law, but he can lease for a heck of a long time, like 999 years. P.V. is the new "in" place since L.A. and Dick made the place famous.

CHARLES McDOWELL Reports

Asterisk Plan for Peace

A man in California is promoting an idea so brilliant, so simple and so fair that we can almost be sure he won't get anywhere with it.

Morey W. McDaniel of Palo Alto has suggested that the telephone company print asterisks in the directory next to the names of subscribers who do not want to be bothered by telephone solicitations. In fact, he has asked authorities to compel the telephone company to adopt the asterisk plan.

We would hope compulsion will not be necessary. Every telephone company should seize upon the idea as a public service, which is, after all, a way of life with telephone companies.

Why should anyone be harassed by strangers on his own telephone? Why should anyone have his dinner, nap, bath or indolent peace of mind intruded upon by somebody selling magazines, fire alarms or dancing lessons?

The telephone company may take the position that the asterisk plan would be terribly expensive. It might well cost a significant amount of money to reset line after line of type in the directory to include asterisks. But what a civilized expenditure it would be.

To reduce the cost, the telephone people could add the noble little asterisks year by year as numbers and addresses are changed, and as the old exchange letters are replaced by the confounded all-number system.

For faster action, however, we would be willing to pay for our asterisk.

What could be fairer than that? Doing it free would be fairer than that, as a matter of fact, but we are trying to make the point that we are willing to meet the telephone company more than half way.

There is more involved here than a certain amount of protection against intrusion, harassment and unwelcome talk about dancing lessons. This is an opportunity for all of us—the telephone companies and all their jumpy, defenceless clients—to strike a blow against the tyranny of the telephone.

People need the thing, and appreciate having it most of the time, but let's demonstrate that we intend to knock some of the boorishness out of the telephone and eventually bring it under control.

Pending electronic salvation, we will settle for an asterisk.

The competing films are to be screened each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening during this period, with festival awards being announced on the final night.

A distinctive feature of this year's festival will be the awards themselves.

FLAQUES CARVED
Eleven plaques, executed in native pine by local carver Kay Nielsen, will go to the makers of the winning films in each category of the documentary film competition.

Newcomers to the competition this year are the Soviet Union, which has agreed to send a strong representative selection of films, Sweden, Belgium, France, Netherlands, Portugal, and the Caribbean countries.

BACK AGAIN
Those back for another year: United States, Canada, Switzerland, Hong Kong, Malaysia.

New Zealand, England, Scotland, Wales, India, Isle of Man, USSR, Germany, Australia, and Africa.

There will also be one night set aside for films produced in British Columbia.

BIGGER CROWDS
John Dalgleish, administrative director of the festival, predicted crowds exceeding last year's record turnout of 25,000 if weather is kind during the run of the festival.

"With increased competition, this year's program should be even more attractive than that of 1963," he said.

ADMISSION FREE
Admission to evening film shows in the park is free and city council covers the entire cost of staging the festival with a grant which this year amounts to $2,500.

Program director Paul Courte promised patrons "an interesting and varied program."

Last-Minute Order Halts Deportation

VANCOUVER (CP)—A last-minute court order Friday prevented Chinese mother Mrs. Wong Lee Yuet Fang from being put aboard a Hong Kong-bound plane as a deportee.

Just three hours before the flight was to depart Mr. Justice F. C. Munroe in provincial supreme court ordered the deportation order suspended pending a new hearing.

Mrs. Fang's lawyer, John Taylor, asked the court to delay the order and direct a new hearing on the grounds of new evidence which he said had become available in her case.

Traffic Death

Coronary To Blame

A 38-year-old woman, originally thought to be a traffic victim, died from a heart attack, a coroner's jury ruled yesterday.

Mrs. Ida Sam of Brentwood died Tuesday in St. Joseph's Hospital. She was taken to hospital Monday evening after the car in which she was riding was involved in an accident on Interurban Road.

Dr. Garth Walter, assistant pathologist at St. Joseph's, told the inquest his autopsy showed the woman had an enlarged heart, liver and brain damage due to a rheumatic fever condition.

His opinion was that the woman died as a result of her heart disease. He could not say if the accident had been a contributing factor.

WALK OR WATCH

Under cross-examination, Dr. Walter agreed the woman could just as easily have died "while walking along the street or watching television."

Other medical testimony indicated the woman had been treated for her heart condition and was waiting for a bed in a Vancouver hospital where she was to undergo heart surgery.

Dr. John Peterson said when he examined Mrs. Sam Monday she admitted she had not taken her medicine for a few days before her death.

'Fire of Joy' at Work Point Today

Olden Day Drill Revived

By TED GASKELL

A meticulous ceremonial military drill which had its origin 200 years ago will be staged at Work Point Barracks at 2 p.m. today.

The 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada will stage tomorrow's Feu de Jole in honor of the regiment's colonel-in-chief, Princess Alexandra of Kent.

Today the drill will have knife-edge sharpness and the rifle firing will be so perfectly timed that the 200 consecutive shots will sound like a prolonged burst from a machine gun.

The ceremony, on the 20th anniversary of D-day, marks the first time a military unit has received the freedom of the city.

It will also be the first occasion on which Bastion Square serves as a public square since the area was blacktopped and used for parking several years ago.

Council plans to restore the square as a landscaped plaza if the June 18 capital budget bylaw is endorsed by ratepayers.

For example, the ceremonies open with skirmishers to inspect the parade ground, followed by pioneers in black aprons and carrying ceremonial axes to clear the parade ground after the skirmishers report it ready for occupancy. Then follows the bugle band and the parade.

FOUR COMPANIES
Four companies will be present today and for the Feu de Jole will stand in two ranks. The firing will run up one rank and down the other. No regimental colors will be carried, but battle honors adorn the drums.

The flag was once a rallying point for troops. The nature of the work of the rifleman, introduced into the British Army in 1860 and used in the Indian wars in the North American Colonies, did away with the use of the rallying point.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes will take the salute and inspect the battalion, accompanied by the commanding officer Lt.-Col. H. C. F. Elliot, CD.

Three Feu de Jole volleys will be fired and the regiment will "off headress" to give three cheers for Princess Alexandra. Yesterday at the rehearsal, B.C. area commander Brig. E. D. Donby inspected the troops.

About 2,500 people saw the rehearsal including Royal Roads cadets, children from a number of district schools and a group of crippled children.

Honor for Scottish

Square Scene Of Ceremony

Bastion Square will be cleared of cars and decked with flags June 6 for ceremonies at which Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) receive the freedom of the city.

Ald. A. I. Curtis, in charge of arrangements, said yesterday the ceremony will begin at 7 p.m. in advance of the previously arranged presentation of a set of drums to the regiment on the lawn in front of the legislative buildings at 8 p.m.

Mayor R. B. Wilson will present a scroll to Lt.-Col. Michael Allen, commanding officer of the militia regiment. The drums

'Right Move'

Pearson Applauded For Stand on Flag

By MIKE GADSBY

Prime Minister Pearson has made the right move in trying to bring in a distinctive Canadian flag at this time, Eric Charman, a Conservative candidate in the last federal election, told the Colonist last night.

"Many thousands of flag designs have been suggested over the past years," said Mr. Charman. "If this design has been deemed best, it should be adopted."

HARD TO UNDERSTAND

"The Red Ensign has been accepted as the official flag for some time now, and for most of that time all political parties have been demanding a new one that would be distinctly Canadian."

"It is therefore hard to understand the present emotional fever in favor of the Ensign," he said.

"Those who insist on a plebiscite to decide the issue are showing irresponsibility. It has been a major election platform of all major Canadian political parties for some years to adopt a new Canadian flag—surely they must represent a majority of the Canadian people."

CENTENARY
There has never been a better time to finalize the issue than on the eve of Canada's Centenary," he said. "And Mr. Pearson, heading a minority government, cannot be criticized for trying to push it through wantonly."

Mr. Charman, outgoing president of the provincial Junior Chamber of Commerce, said his last act at the annual meeting next week in Nanaimo will be to try to obtain a unanimous vote from the chamber endorsing Mr. Pearson's proposal.

Firemen Keep It Going

Sidney volunteer fire department spent more than four hours at a fire last night, and managed to keep it going until the entire building was destroyed.

They poured a lot of water on the fire, but not enough to put it out.

But the fire department isn't getting lazy—the men were destroying a 60-year-old condemned building next door to the fire department to make room for a parking lot.

The fire had to be kept watered down so it wouldn't spread to nearby buildings, so anyone who saw the fire department in action may have got a bad impression of their ability.

The building through the years has served as a store, a church and an apartment building.

Blood Drive Falls Short

The Red Cross collected 782 pints of blood in a three-day clinic held in Victoria this week, but it was 218 pints short of its objective.

The clinic saw 455 civilian pints donated, and a further 327 pints at HMC Dockyard.

Paint-Up Push Running Into Problems

By IAN STREET

The initial downtown paint-up scheme is running into some problems, a city hall spokesman said yesterday, although a good deal of progress has already been achieved.

Roderick Clack, special projects and architectural consultant, said the problems, if unchecked, could affect the overall success of the scheme.

He stressed that only a few building owners and tenants have so far failed to give wholehearted support to the plan. Nevertheless, he added, these few could jeopardize the success of the entire facelift operation.

PROGRESS REPORT

A progress report on the paint-up operation to date, circulated among the members of city council, made these points:

● "A few building owners or tenants fail to appreciate the value of co-operative participation and do not follow the overall plan."

● "A few building owners or tenants accept the plan but are unable to see their way clear to proceed at this time."

● "A few tenants fail to understand the importance of detail beyond paint-up—signs, lettering, awnings—as an integral part of the improvement scheme."

EVERY EFFORT

Mr. Clack said that in order to complement the work carried out according to the master-plan every effort should be made to overcome these problems.

"The full impact of the paint-up plan can only be achieved when all suggested improvements are considered and acted upon," he said.

SIX COMPLETED

To date six premises within the initial Government Street-Causeway "tourist row" area have been completed according to the plan, and a similar number of jobs are listed as "tendered and ready to start."

A further 39 individual paint-up plans have been prepared by the special projects office at city hall for this area.

In the rest of the downtown section, which, for the purposes of implementing the scheme, has been divided into five sections, six premises have been facelifted according to the plan and seven individual paint-up plans have been prepared on request.

Officers Elect Hayward

Gordon Hayward, municipal clerk of Saanich, was elected by acclamation president of the B.C. Municipal Officers Association which wound up a three-day convention in the Empress Hotel Friday.

Two lower mainland representatives, G. H. Carroll, treasurer of Richmond, and N. Woodward, North Vancouver; Vancouver Island representative, James Sawyer, municipal clerk of Alberni.

Election contests were held only to settle the two officers representing the rest of the province. Winners were: C. A. Jeffery, treasurer of Prince George, and H. W. Cooper, administrator of Pemberton.

43 Girls
 Model
 Own Styles

Before an audience of 200 proud mothers and friends, 43 young girls from Grade 11 and Grade 12 taking home economics at Oak Bay Junior High School modelled their sewing fashions made during the past few months under guidance of school sewing teachers.

The affair was sponsored by the Y's Menettes.

Fashion commentator was Helen Beltrac and the panel of judges were Mrs. J. Kraefling, Mrs. J. Cottam and Mrs. Ursula Redwood who gave the final points for the fit and suitability of the style and fabric. All articles had been pre-judged and marked for workmanship.

Tying for first place in the Grade 11 section were Miss Valerie Chan and Miss Eleanor Pronk, both of Victoria High School. Miss Chan's winning outfit was of a white basket weave wool suiting, a three-piece afternoon suit featuring a brilliant red blouse. Miss Pronk chose to make a white peau-de-sole evening dress (short) with intricate frontal beadwork design worked by herself.

Third prize winner was from Esquimalt, High, Miss Clare Holmes. Her shades of blue brocade party dress featured shoestring straps and was complemented by a self jacket. All were awarded cash prizes.

In the Grade 12 section, first and grand prize winner of the perpetual Rose Bowl was Miss Bendite Ellertsen of Victoria High. She received a miniature rose bowl for herself, and the trophy goes to the school. The top-winning outfit was a straight style red wool coat which complemented her soft tan wool dress with accent bow at the waistline.

Second prize went to Miss Kathleen McMillan, Esquimalt High School. She had made for herself a graduation dress and coat of metallic brocade peau-de-sole.

Third prize winner, Miss Heather Davidson of Claremont Senior Secondary School, modelled very well her yellow wool boucle coat with interesting back paneling.

Prizes were awarded by Mrs. Leslie Peterson. Soloist for the evening was Mrs. Margaret Christison.

Pink and White Theme At Belmont Wedding

Belmont United Church was decorated with pink and white flowers when Dr. D. B. Sparling heard marriage vows exchanged between Gail Elizabeth Storrie and Mr. William Vernon Hanson.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. George Storrie, 1871 Allenby Street, and Mrs. Edith Hanson, Victoria, and V. Hanson, Saskatoon. Mr. Storrie gave his daughter in marriage.

Soloist, Mrs. R. Hundleby, sang the "Lord's Prayer" during signing of the register.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of embossed brocade enhanced with beading and pearl appliques on the bodice. The full skirt, with scissor front paneling, extended to a train from diagonal bias bands below the waist. Sleeves ended in lily points. A three-tier chapel-length veil misted from a coronet of teardrop pearls. Only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift of the groom. Pink roses and lily of the valley were in her bouquet.

Identical gowns of pink brocade with matching pillbox hats trimmed with toning veiling were choice of maid of honor, Miss Pat Holmberg and bridesmaids, the Misses Carol and Pat Hundleby. They complemented their outfits with feathered white girdle centred with pink rosebuds.

Flower girl, Miss Marcia Hundleby, wore a full-skirted frock of pink brocade and carried a basket of pink and white blossoms.

Mr. Reg Jones was best man and guests were ushered to pews marked with white satin bows, by Mr. Frank McNeil and Mr. Larry Lott.

At a reception which followed in Pembroke Hall, the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake decorated in white with pink rosebuds. Arrangements of spring flowers centred guest tables. L. McLaughlin proposed the toast. Upon return from a honeymoon trip up-Island, the couple will make their home at 637 Pine Street.

For travelling, the bride wore a two-piece suit of pink linen featuring white lace trim on the jacket. Her hat was in tone and she complemented the ensemble with white accessories and white rosebud corsage.

Out-of-town guests at the ceremony included Mrs. D. Magill, Saskatoon; Mr. and Mrs. J. Magill and Mr. and Mrs. R. Hundleby, all of Vancouver.

Too Timid

HAMILTON (CP)—Canada's first woman brokerage partner said here brokerage firms are willing to hire and train women, but women are too timid to take the chance. Violet Cook of Toronto said: "In this business, you work basically on straight commission. It's too unstable and insecure for women."

Residential Zoning Wanted

The newly-formed Albert Head Ratepayers Association has gone on record as favoring a form of residential zoning.

Association president Jim Buchanan said one of the main reasons for the action taken at Thursday's general meeting was to let prospective property owners know the feelings of those who are already there.

"We hope this way to stop a lot of potential development we consider undesirable and which would have to be curbed later," said Mr. Buchanan.

No details of the specific zoning category which would best serve the Albert Head area have been worked out, the president said, but it was agreed that it should be broadly a "country home type of residential zoning."

This, the association feels, is the only practical alternative to the present rural land use regulations imposed by the provincial government which permit such operations as milk farms and kennels.

In a written statement following Thursday's meeting the association said:

"The rural land classification (now) allows practically any form of land use irrespective of how detrimental it may be to family living or house value."

Forty-four property owner members of the association voted 86 per cent in favor of a residential type zoning at the meeting held in St. Mary's Parish Hall.

A delegation will seek a meeting with Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell to make known its views.

Rain Not Much Help To Berry Growers

Selective rain, which has been falling during the last while, has not helped the Saanich berry growers as much as was hoped.

"We haven't had much rain out here," said T. G. Mitchell, president of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association, last night.

"They got all the rain in the city but the berries do not grow in the city," he said.

He said though the berries were in full bloom now growers were still hoping for more rain before picking starts June 8.

Mr. Mitchell said a fair crop was expected this year.

Strike Threat Eased

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Union officials last night recommended acceptance of conciliation proposals to settle the forest industry contract bargaining in the B.C. coast region.

Martin:

Wait, See On China

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin indicated Friday the government will come to some decision on recognition of Communist China after the United Nations General Assembly this fall—but not before.

He said in a one-day foreign debate in the Commons, where attendance dropped at one point to fewer than 30 MPs in the 263-seat chamber, that the extent of any modifications in the Canadian position on China will not become apparent until the government sees what developments occur at the UN assembly.

CLOSE VOTE?

These developments might be the setting of Red China in the UN or a vote so close that it might foreshadow entry the following year, Mr. Martin said.

The General Assembly is expected to meet in November after the U.S. presidential election.

The 28,000 forest workers affected, members of the International Woodworkers of America, will vote on the settlement between Monday and June 8 and the majority vote will determine the union policy.

EMPLOYERS MUN

Forest Industrial Relations, bargaining organization for the employers, said it will issue no statement on the conciliation board award until it has studied the conciliation proposal further.

TWO INCREASES

It calls for a 15-cent-an-hour increase effective June 15 and a further 15 cents effective June 15 next year. Journeymen tradesmen would get an additional 15-cent increase for total increases of 43 cents.

LABOR MINISTER

Lester B. Pearson has termed the proposal "a fair basis for settlement."

BALLOTS OUT MONDAY

An IWA statement last night said ballots will be sent out to local unions Monday by mail and must be returned not later than June 8.

Voting will be by secret ballot. The ballots will have two questions, so members can vote for or against acceptance of the conciliation board award and for or against authorizing strike action should the union "fail to gain a satisfactory settlement."

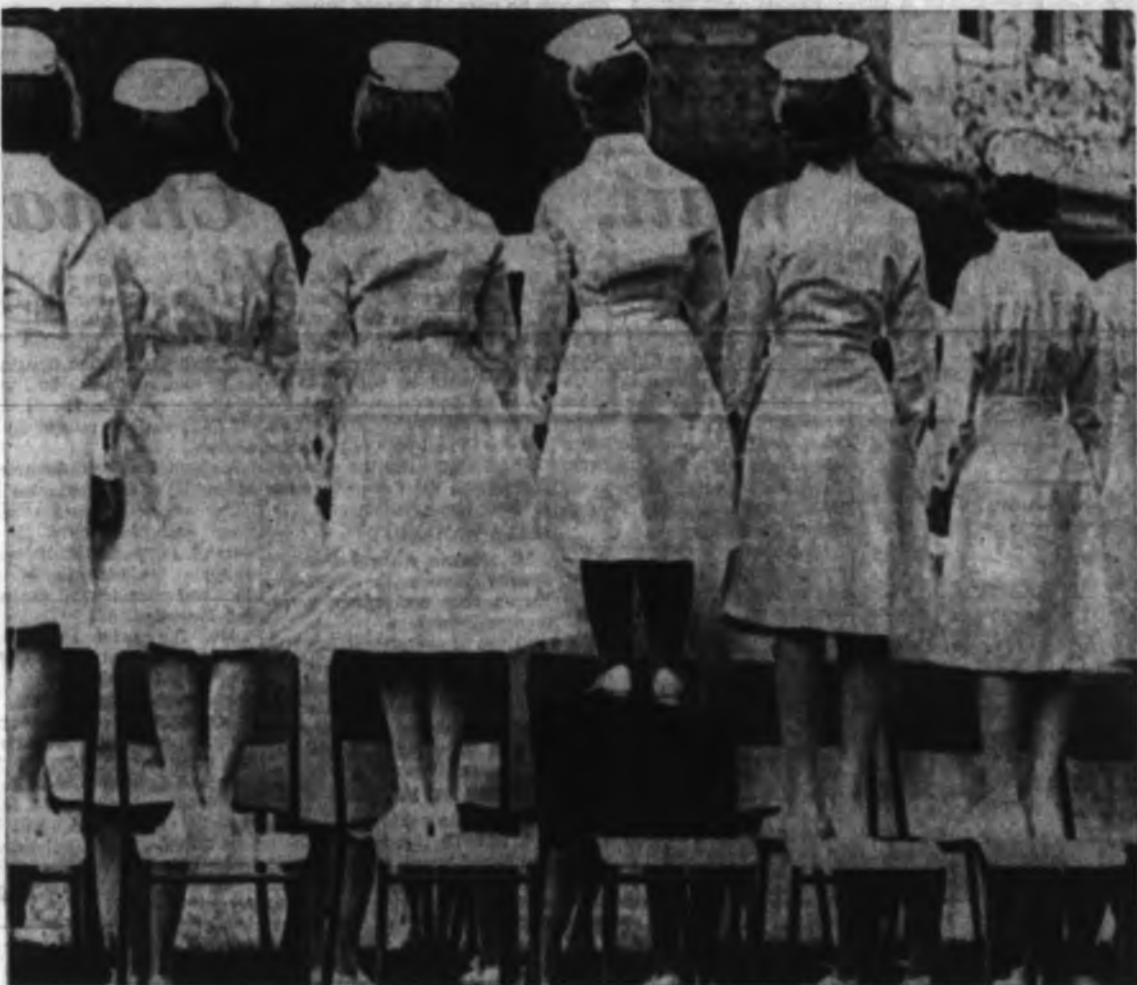

A union official said last night that the second question is in the air.

Sudbury II Reaches Freighter

A Victoria-based deep-sea tug, Sudbury II, with skipper Harry Blagburn at the helm, took a disabled Formosa freighter in tow yesterday and is heading towards the coast with her.

The 5,000-ton freighter Tai Hsing had lost her propeller and was drifting 500 miles south of the Aleutian Islands May 18.

Jet-Builder's Wife

Motive: Politics
Money or Secrets?

KIDNAP ROCKS PARIS

PARIS (UPI)—Three masked men early today kidnapped Madame Marcel Dassault, the wife of a leading Gaullist politician and builder of France's Mirage IV top-secret atomic bombers, police said.

Police said a nationwide dragnet immediately was launched for the gang that snatched the wealthy Paris society woman as she was returning home from a visit to friends.

Madame Dassault is in her fifties.

Police said the kidnappers were concealed in a light delivery truck from which they pounced upon Madame Dassault when her chauffeur-driven steel-gray Cadillac pulled up in front of her house.

BLUDGEON CHAUFFEUR

Police said one of the assailants threw open the door of the car and knocked the chauffeur unconscious with a pistol butt.

The raiders then forced Madame Dassault into a waiting Citroen limousine and drove off at high speed.

Her husband, National Assembly Deputy Marcel Bloch Dassault, a prominent financier and builder of the Mystere and Mirage warplanes, immediately alerted police Prefect Maurice Papon.

ROAD BLOCKS

The abduction took place shortly after midnight. Papon promptly ordered police forces in Paris to establish road blocks and sent out radio cars.

Police forces cordoned off the area around the Dassault residence.

The delivery truck was abandoned by the attackers on the spot. Police found a black hat inside the driver's cabinet.

A police dog, which picked up the scent from the hat, lost the track of the assailants a few yards away—where they got into a high-speed car with their victim.

POLITICAL MOTIVE?

There was speculation of political motivations in the kidnapping.

The victim's husband was an old-time Gaullist who won the highest class Legion of Honor and medals for wartime resistance work for Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French movement.

Madame Dassault's abduction was the most daring kidnapping in France since April 12, 1960, when a group of kidnapers abducted the son of Roland Peugeot, heir to the Peugeot fortune.

The boy eventually was returned for a ransom of 50,000,000 (old) francs ($25,000) but police caught the kidnapers. They are serving long prison terms.

Dassault also is the owner of the illustrated weekly Jeune France.

Emergency Again In Guiana

GEORGETOWN (UPI)—British Guiana Governor Sir Richard Luyt Friday declared a state of emergency throughout the country following violence, arson and murder in the coastal sugar belt.

Luyt, who appealed for calm, also said he has asked for more British troops to help keep the peace.

This is the third time in three years a state of emergency has been called in the colony.

Boston

Fire Toll 29 Homes

BOSTON (AP)—A wind-fanned fire roared through two blocks in the Andrew Square section of Boston Friday, and in less than an hour 29 three-story dwellings were destroyed and 87 families were homeless.

Dozens of women fled their homes holding children, escaping the fire only with what they were wearing.

At the height of the fire at least 20 houses were roaring masses of flames.

HOMELESS IN SCHOOLS

Three schools in the area will be used to shelter the homeless families.

There were no fatalities reported, but at least eight persons were taken to hospital suffering burns or smoke inhalation. One fireman, overcome by smoke, was on the danger list.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately known.

Back Off, Reds Told

Might Expand Asia War—Rusk

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in one of the toughest U.S. warnings to date, Friday night told Red China that the war in South Viet Nam would be expanded if the Communists persisted in their course of aggression in southeast Asia.

Cambodia

Canadian Patrol Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has been looking at the possibility of the stationing of a United Nations patrol—to which this country might contribute—along the border between South Viet Nam and Cambodia, a highly placed source said Friday.

The government plans no definite moves in this regard until it has examined a definite proposal which presumably will come from the UN.

It is possible that a mere UN presence—a few observers—on the border would serve as well as a small UN force.

News Strike In Shooting

PANAMA CITY (Reuters)—Journalists, photographers and printers started a 24-hour strike here Friday in protest against the wounding of Escobalino Calvo, editor of the newspaper La Hora, who was shot in the street here Thursday. Accused of the shooting is Aquilino Boyd, the Panamanian ambassador to the United Nations.

"Leave your neighbors alone," said Rusk, warning Red China and Communist North Viet Nam—the backers of warfare in both Viet Nam and Laos.

NO WITHDRAWAL

Rusk ruled out withdrawal of U.S. aid or neutralization in a policy speech prepared for a meeting of the American law institute.

Among the alternatives the United States faced was expansion of the war in South Viet Nam. "This can be the result if the Communists persist in their course of aggression," Rusk said.

SMALL BOMBERS

Rusk's blunt statement followed disclosures by official sources that the United States may send the embattled government of Laos more small bombers to help it check the Communist drive in that country.

It was learned that portions of the U.S. Seventh Fleet were in the southeast Asian area yesterday when the Pentagon announced that a U.S. reconnaissance plane was hit by ground fire on a flight over turbulent Laos. But the plane returned safely with no injuries to crew members.

FROM CARRIER

It was reported unofficially that the plane was operating from a Seventh Fleet aircraft carrier, the Kitty Hawk.

VIENTIANE LAOS (UPI)—Neutralist Gen. Kong Le indicated yesterday he would ask the United States for direct military aid if the Communists do not halt their continuing offense and give back territory they have won.

The offensive was reported Friday to have captured Ban Tavang, last outpost defending the approaches to the Mekong River town of Pakxang, 80 miles east of Vientiane and on the border of Thailand.

In the Plain of Jars area 100 miles north of Vientiane, Royal Lao air force F-72s launched desperate bombing and strafing attacks to save

1,200 trapped neutralist troops encircled by the Pathet Lao.

With operation Do Xa, Central Viet Nam (UPI)—Government troops, attacking in force in the central Vietnamese highlands, have overrun the headquarters of a top Communist general and set back his strike plans by at least six months, Vietnamese commanders reported Friday.

But the elusive and shadowy Gen. Don, commander of Viet Cong guerrillas in the jungle-covered mountains 320 miles northeast of Saigon, escaped with the bulk of his forces, the commanders reported. A secret "Phase Two" of Operation Do Xa was reported under way.

Defence Fails Cheesed Maybe But Not Drunk

LONDON (AP)—Brian C. Kibblewhite declared Friday he was cheesed—not drunk—when found slumped at the wheel of his car by a policeman.

Kibblewhite, a 33-year-old book salesman, admitted in court that he had drunk five and-a-half pints of beer. But it wasn't the beer that knocked him out, he insisted. It was that confounded cheese he ate with it.

Kibblewhite's lawyer said his client was taking a drug prescribed by his doctor for a stomach condition.

"Medical research," said the lawyer, "has recently established that eating cheese produces an effect such as Mr. Kibblewhite was suffering when arrested."

"He had eaten rather a large quantity of cheese with his beer, and so warning had been given to him that it is unwise to eat cheese when taking this prescription."

Kibblewhite pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of drinks or drugs. But under the circumstances, his lawyer argued, it would be unfair to take away his driving licence.

Magistrate Kenneth Abbracough pondered briefly.

"The prosecution," said the judge, "has established that the defendant had to be helped out of his car and that upon arrival at the police station he collapsed on the floor."

"In my opinion he had ingested not only too much cheese but too much alcohol."

Abbracough fined Kibblewhite £20 and suspended his driver's licence for 12 months.

How Many Leaves—and When?

Flag Like Shell Game

OTTAWA (CP)—The maple leaf flag design chosen by the cabinet is developing into a cliff-hanger. (See also Pages 5, 17.)

And Prime Minister Pearson indicated in the Commons Friday that curiosity about the exact design won't be satisfied until the middle of next week.

For the second day, the prime minister left the Commons guessing about the design picked by the cabinet at a meeting Thursday.

There are rumors the number of maple leaves has shrunk from three to one.

The rumors seem to have arisen from Mr. Pearson's replies Thursday to Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur). Their exchange, at the tail-end of a series of flag questions, went this way:

"Does the flag design he has chosen have a maple leaf on it?" Mr. Fisher asked.

"Yes, Mr. Speaker," replied Mr. Pearson.

Does it have three maple leaves on it?" asked Mr. Fisher.

Mr. Pearson gave no reply. It has been generally assumed the number is three, largely on the basis of Mr. Pearson's publicly expressed "hankering" for three red maple leaves on a white ground with a vertical blue bar at the staff and fly edges.

Curiosity in the Commons was unabated Friday. To oppose

A National Flag Plebiscite

Don't Leave It in Hands Of Politicians to Decide

Though the Daily Colonist takes the editorial stand that the Canadian Red Ensign should be retained as Canada's flag, it recognizes the right of every Canadian of voting age to express his personal and free views on the matter.

The Colonist firmly believes that the choice of a national symbol is something that cannot and must not be left in the hands of politicians to decide under partisan directions.

The only way to remove this issue from the realm of politics is for a national plebiscite to be held, in which every Canadian citizen can make his or her own desires known to the government.

Colonist readers who support this view are urged to complete the coupon form below. Simply clip it, sign it and enclose it in an envelope addressed to The Hon. Lester B. Pearson, House of Commons, Ottawa. No stamp is necessary.

Dear Prime Minister:

I am in favor of a national plebiscite to decide upon the selection of a Canadian national flag.

Jaycees Plan Biggest

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO—Jaycees and Jayceettes from B.C. and the Yukon will gather here for three days a week in a convention filled with fun, frolic and the occasional resolution.

This is the first time the annual Jaycee meeting has been held here and the local convention committee promises the biggest and best convention ever.

"fewer and shorter speeches than at any other Jaycee convention ever held anywhere."

In between dances, parties and 6:30 a.m. wakeup sessions, delegates will discuss some business.

Local Jaycees say the flag issue and biculturalism will be among the most-discussed items on the agenda. A resolution from Duncan urges a reduction in Island ferry fares and an improvement in ferry service.

TOURIST MAP

The second Jaycee-sponsored tourist map of Nanaimo and surrounding districts is expected to be ready for presentation to the convention.

He joined the 30th Battalion CEF during the First World War and later transferred to the Royal Navy, serving in minesweepers. During the second world war, he joined the RCN and served in administrative posts in both the Pacific and Atlantic commands.

Mr. Collinson was Imperial Oil's agent in the Queen Charlotte Islands centre of Skidegate for a number of years until his retirement in 1936, when he moved to Mill Bay.

Skindivers and other qualified workmen had toiled almost every day since the wave to rig the line. Water from the emergency line set up the day of the wave had to be boiled before use.

"You lack experience and fundamental good manners," Court was told Brady was driving without lights late at night on the Denman Island road, roaring up suddenly behind a car, flashing lights on and off and sounding the horn, then falling back only to repeat the performance several times.

Brady was fined $30 and given a 42-day license suspension.

John Miller of Nanaimo pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $45. Glen G. Stewart of Nanaimo was convicted on a similar charge and was fined $30.

Mac-Powell Strike

Peterson Doubts Early Settlement

A statement by Labor Minister Peterson last night indicated an early settlement is unlikely in the strike of 60 office workers which has killed 2,700 workers in Alberni and Port Alberni.

Mr. Peterson, speaking shortly after mayors of the Twin Cities appealed for his help, said there does not appear to be common ground for agreement.

He said he and officials of his department have been in touch with the various unions and MacMillan, Blooded and Powell River in an effort to solve the dispute.

"It can only be done by voluntary agreement," he said, "and at the moment there does not appear to be common ground in which such agreement can be arrived at."

Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni and Mayor Les Hammer of Port Alberni, in a telegram yesterday afternoon, asked Mr. Peterson to seek a solution and pointed out the labor trouble threatens an economy already hit hard by the Good Friday tidal wave.

Executives of the IWA, pulp and sulphite, paper workers' and electricians' unions also appealed to Mr. Peterson to intervene in what they called an "explosive situation."

Plea by Mayors

The mayors used the same phrase in their telegram, which said in part:

"Strike has closed pulp and paper mill, two major sawmills, shingle mill and plywood mill. Added to disastrous devastation of recent tidal wave, this seriously threatens the economy of this area."

"Your assistance in preventing explosive situation and averting prolonged shutdown with resultant great hardship would be greatly appreciated."

Only the small Tahsis mill still is operating after the Office Employees' International Union, Local 15, put up informational picket lines at Mac-Powell installations.

Pickets appeared at the Somass sawmill Thursday afternoon, the plywood plant at midnight Thursday, and the Alberni Pacific division sawmill at 7 a.m. yesterday.

The company charged all four other unions were staging an illegal strike by honoring the picket lines.

Workers at the Somass sawmill claimed their plant was using "hot" steam produced at the pulp plant, where the office workers went on strike Tuesday.

The company confirmed the steam boilers had been operated by non-union supervisory staff.

Meanwhile, William Lowe, office union international vice-president, denied a Mac-Powell claim that it pays the same office salary scales as its competitors.

Fulton at Nanaimo:

Flag: Bitter Split

NANAIMO—"Bitterness and profound division" already have resulted from Prime Minister Pearson's new flag, B.C. Progressive-Conservative leader Davie Fulton charged yesterday.

He told the convention of the provincial women's party association Mr. Pearson "is attempting to push his personal choice down the throats of the Canadian people."

"A symbol which should unite will become instead, as a result of Mr. Pearson's methods, an instrument of further division."

Mr. Fulton said the Pearson "ultimatum" calls for a new look at the Liberal policy of co-operative federalism.

"On an issue which calls for a decision based on the widest possible measure of agreement, union and co-operation, Mr. Pearson has chosen to substitute a decision based on his personal taste, reinforced by an appeal to partisan politics," he said.

The convention passed a resolution supporting the Red Ensign after association president Lyn Morrow said the Pearson flag has no historic or religious significance.

She went on: "If Canada must have a territorial flag, stripped of historic and religious significance, up the Thunderbird!"

WIRE TO PEARSON

Also in the Nanaimo area, the 265-member Mount Benson branch of the Legion sent a telegram to Mr. Pearson urging retention of the Red Ensign.

In the Comox Valley, two municipal leaders followed the national pattern by taking exactly opposite views on the flag.

William Henderson, chairman of the Cumberland village commission, favored the Red Ensign and said the maple leaf flag "has a sickly look about it."

BIG BOYS NOW

Mayor William Moore of Courtenay urged a distinctively Canadian flag, possibly keeping the ensign, because "we are big boys now."

Magistrate J. Ryland urged a national referendum and C. A. Cousins, past president of the Cumberland Legion branch, agreed "it is time we had a distinctive flag."

Slaying Retrial June 8

NANAIMO—The retrial of David Mitchell of the Shell Beach Indian reserve near Ladysmith, will be heard during a special criminal assize court session beginning June 8, it was announced yesterday.

The new trial was ordered by the Supreme Court of Canada in a recent ruling.

Mitchell was convicted last year of capital murder in the death of his brother after a fight over a teen-age girl.

Pipefitters Cause Elk Falls Stoppage

CAMPBELL RIVER — A wildcat strike by pipefitters Friday caused a work stoppage on the $38,000,000 addition to Crown Zellerbach plant at Elk Falls.

About 250 men belonging to other unions refused to cross picket lines set up by 30 pipefitters employed at the project. The pipefitters are protesting what they term "inferior living conditions" at the camp.

Mayor Hammer:

Filling Gap Almost Impossible

PORT ALBERNI — Conceding for the first time there is little chance Ottawa will increase its $250,000 grant, Mayor Les Hammer indicated yesterday the task of raising needed funds for tidal-wave victims is almost impossible.

He said local officials have raised about $400,000 for the Alberni Valley and West Coast Disaster Fund through voluntary donations and "it is hardly likely they can duplicate this effort."

EASIER FOR THEM

"It would have been far easier for the senior governments to produce the needed several hundred thousand dollars," he said. "It will be a struggle to collect from voluntary contributions the necessary amount to pay disaster victims the remaining 75 per cent of assessed damage."

Mayor Hammer continued: "Nevertheless, it looks as though this responsibility has once more fallen on the shoulders of the disaster committee, especially the two mayors and councils and the local MP and MLA."

NO SMALL ORDER

"It looks as though we have to raise as much again as we've already raised and this is no small order," he said. "Even if we are successful, this merely provides the remaining 25 per cent of assessed loss and does not take into account replacement values."

The mayor indicated the main hope is help from the B.C. and Winnipeg flood funds of some 15 years ago, which still have about $2,600,000 in the kitty.

OTHERS GET PAID

The next big job, said Mayor Hammer, is to pay cheques to other communities. So far, 75 per cent cheques have been paid only in the Alberni, with all but 40 of the cheques picked up as of last night.

He said the writing of the cheques for the other 25 per cent must be left for "some uncertain future date."

In Parksville, the Mount Arrowsmith Legion branch has announced a $300 donation from its poppy fund to Alberni Valley veterans who took losses.

VETERANS HIT

The legionnaires have learned 30 veterans are affected and some on low pensions were seriously impoverished.

In Ucluelet, eight groups are sponsoring a dance and evening of entertainment in the recreation hall tonight, with proceeds going to the disaster fund.

Heads Dentists

New president of the B.C. Dental Association, chosen during annual convention in Vancouver Thursday, is Dr. Graham Pettapiece, 35, of Parksville. Island directors include Dr. G. E. Walkey of Duncan and Dr. G. C. Russell of Victoria.

Duncan Gets Six-Day Shopping

DUNCAN — Thirty merchants, including most of the larger downtown stores, have decided to stay open six days a week, a spokesman announced yesterday.

The statement by clothier Norman Martin came a few days after more than 60 retail merchants and other businesses decided to close Mondays, effective next week, instead of Thursday afternoons.

"We feel closing one day a week is a backward step," said Mr. Martin. "Duncan and its surrounding areas are developing very quickly and the public deserves a six-day shopping week."

Batons Twirl This Morning

The Vancouver Island open baton-twirling competition will begin in St. Patrick's Hall, 2368 Trent, at 10 a.m. today. They are sponsored by the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association and a dancing school.

Union Chiefs Okay Award

IWA STRIKE THREAT EASED

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Union officials last night recommended acceptance of conciliation proposals to settle the forest industry contract bargaining in the B.C. coast region.

The 26,000 forest workers affected, members of the International Woodworkers of America, will vote on the settlement between Monday and June 8 and the majority vote will determine the union policy.

Forest Industrial Relations, bargaining organization for the employers, said it will issue no statement on the conciliation award until it has studied the conciliation proposal further. The proposal, by B.C. government conciliation officer E. P. Fisher, calls for a 28-cent total in wage increases in a two-year contract.

It calls for a 15-cent-an-hour increase effective June 15 and a further 13 cents effective June 15 next year. Journeymen tradesmen would get an additional 15-cent increase for total increases of 43 cents.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson has termed the proposal "a fair basis for settlement."

BALLOTS OUT MONDAY

An IWA statement last night said ballots will be sent out to local unions Monday by mail and must be returned not later than June 8.

Voting will be by secret ballot. The ballots will have two questions, so members can vote for or against acceptance of the conciliation award and for or against authorizing strike action should the union "fail to gain a satisfactory settlement."

A union official said last night that the second question is in

Martin:

Wait, See On China

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin indicated Friday the government will come to some decision on recognition of Communist China after the United Nations General Assembly this fall—but not before.

He said in a one-day foreign debate in the Commons, where attendance dropped at one point to fewer than 30 MPs in the 265-seat chamber, that the extent of any modifications in the Canadian position on China will not become apparent until the government sees what developments occur at the UN assembly.

CLOSE VOTE?

These developments might be the seating of Red China in the UN or a vote so close that it might foreshadow entry the following year, Mr. Martin said. The General Assembly is expected to meet in November after the U.S. presidential election

Sudbury II Reaches Freighter

A Victoria-based deep-sea tug, Sudbury II, with skipper Harry Blagburne at the helm, took a disabled Formosan freighter in tow yesterday and is heading towards the coast with her.

The 9,800-ton freighter Tai Hsing had lost her propeller and was drifting 200 miles south of the Aleutian Islands May 18.

The tug and freighter are expected to reach coastal waters in 10 days to two weeks.

Back Off, Reds Told

Might Expand Asia War—Rusk

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in one of the toughest U.S. warnings to date, Friday night told Red China that the war in South Viet Nam would be expanded if the Communists persisted in their course of aggression in southeast Asia.

Cambodia

Canadian Patrol Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has been looking at the possibility of the stationing of a United Nations patrol—to which this country might contribute—along the border between South Viet Nam and Cambodia, a highly placed source said Friday.

The government plans no definite moves in this regard until it has examined a definite proposal which presumably will come from the UN.

It is possible that a mere UN presence—a few observers—on the border would serve as well as a small UN force.

News Strike In Shooting

PANAMA CITY (Reuters)—Journalists, photographers and printers started a 24-hour strike here Friday in protest against the wounding of Escobar Calvo, editor of the newspaper La Hora, who was shot in the street here Thursday. Accused of the shooting is Aquilino Boyd, the Panamanian ambassador to the United Nations.

"Leave your neighbors alone," said Rusk, warning Red China and Communist North Viet Nam—the backers of warfare in both Viet Nam and Laos.

NO WITHDRAWAL

Rusk ruled out withdrawal of U.S. aid or neutralization in a policy speech prepared for a meeting of the American law institute.

Among the alternatives the United States faced was expansion of the war in South Viet Nam. "This can be the result if the Communists persist in their course of aggression," Rusk said.

SMALL BOMBERS

Rusk's blunt statement followed disclosures by official sources that the United States may send the embattled government of Laos more small bombers to help it check the Communist drive in that country.

It was learned that portions of the U.S. Seventh Fleet were in the southeast Asian area yesterday when the Pentagon announced that a U.S. reconnaissance plane was hit by ground fire on a flight over turbulent Laos. But the plane returned safely with no injuries to crew members.

FROM CARRIE

It was reported unofficially that the plane was operating from a Seventh Fleet aircraft carrier, the Kitty Hawk.

VIENTIANE Laos (UPI)—Neutralist Gen. Kong Le indicated yesterday he would ask the United States for direct military aid if the Communists do not halt their continuing offence and give back territory they have won.

The offensive was reported Friday to have captured Ban Tavang, last outpost defending the approaches to the Mekong River town of Pakxang, 80 miles east of Vientiane and on the border of Thailand.

In the Plain of Jars area 100 miles north of Vientiane, Royal Lao air force T28 planes launched desperate bombing and strafing attacks to save 1,200 trapped neutralist troops encircled by the Pathet Lao.

WITH OPERATIONS DO XA, Central Viet Nam (UPI)—Government troops attacking in the central Vietnamese highlands, have overrun the headquarters of a top Communist general and set back his strike plans by at least six months, Vietnamese commanders reported Friday.

But the elusive and shadowy Gen. Don, commander of Viet Cong guerrillas in the jungle-covered mountains 320 miles northeast of Saigon, escaped with the bulk of his forces, the commanders reported.

Defence Fails

Cheesed Maybe But Not Drunk

LONDON (AP)—Brian C. Kibblewhite declared Friday he was "cheesed—not drunk"—when found slumped at the wheel of his car by a policeman.

Kibblewhite, a 33-year-old book salesman, admitted in court that he had drunk five and-a-half pints of beer. But it wasn't the beer that knocked him out, he insisted. It was that confounded cheese he ate with it.

Kibblewhite's lawyer said his client was taking a drug prescribed by his doctor for a stomach condition.

"Medical research," said the lawyer, "has recently established that eating cheese after taking this drug produces an effect such as Mr. Kibblewhite was suffering when arrested."

"He had eaten rather a large quantity of cheese with his beer, and no warning had been given to him that it is unwise to eat cheese when taking this prescription."

Kibblewhite pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of drugs or drugs. But under the circumstances, his lawyer argued, it would be unfair to take away his driving licence.

Magistrate Kenneth Abbracough pondered briefly.

"The prosecution," said the judge, "has established that the defendant had to be helped out of his car and that upon arrival at the police station he collapsed on the floor."

"In my opinion he had ingested not only too much cheese but too much alcohol."

Abbracough fined Kibblewhite £20 and suspended his driver's licence for 12 months.

Jet Builder's Wife

Paris Rocked By Kidnap

PARIS (UPI)—Three masked men early today kidnapped Madame Marcel Dassault, the wife of a leading Gaullist politician and builder of France's Mirage IV top-secret atomic bombers, police said.

Police said a nationwide dragnet immediately was launched for the gang that snatched the wealthy Paris society woman as she was returning home from a visit to friends.

Madame Dassault is in her fifties.

Police said the kidnappers were concealed in a light delivery truck from which they pounced upon Madame Dassault when her chauffeur-driven steel-gray Cadillac pulled up in front of her house.

BLUDGEON CHAUFFEUR

Police said one of the assailants threw open the door of the car and knocked the chauffeur unconscious with a pistol butt.

The raiders then forced Madame Dassault into a waiting Citroen limousine and drove off at high speed.

Her husband, National Assembly Deputy Marcel Bloch Dassault, a prominent financier and builder of the Mystere and Mirage warplanes, immediately alerted police Prefect Maurice Papon.

ROAD BLOCKS

The abduction took place shortly after midnight. Papon promptly ordered police forces in Paris to establish road blocks and sent out radio cars.

Police forces cordoned off the area around the Dassault residence. The delivery truck was abandoned by the attackers on the spot. Police found a black hat inside the driver's cabinet.

A police dog, which picked up the scent from the hat, lost the track of the assailants a few yards away—where they got into a high-speed car with their victim.

POLITICAL MOTIVE?

There was speculation of political motivations in the kidnapping. The victim's husband was an old-time Gaullist who won the highest class Legion of Honor and medals for wartime resistance work for Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French movement.

Madame Dassault's abduction was the most daring kidnapping in France since April 12, 1960, when a group of kidnappers abducted the son of Roland Peugeot, heir to the Peugeot fortune.

The boy eventually was returned for a ransom of 50,000,000 (old) francs ($25,000) but police caught the kidnappers. They are serving long prison terms.

Dassault also is the owner of the illustrated weekly Jour de France.

Fire Toll 29 Homes

BOSTON (AP)—A wind-fanned fire roared through two blocks in the Andrew Square section of Boston Friday, and in less than an hour 29 three-story dwellings were destroyed and 87 families were homeless.

Dozens of women fled their homes holding children, escaping the fire only with what they were wearing. At the height of the fire at least 20 houses were roaring masses of flames.

HOMELESS IN SCHOOLS Three schools in the area will be used to shelter the homeless families.

There were no fatalities reported, but at least eight persons were taken to hospital suffering burns or smoke inhalation. One fireman, overcome by smoke, was on the danger list.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately known.

How Many Leaves—and When?

Flag Like Shell Game

OTTAWA (CP)—The maple leaf flag design chosen by the cabinet is developing into a cliff-hanger. (See also Pages 5, 17.)

And Prime Minister Pearson indicated in the Commons Friday that curiosity about the exact design won't be satisfied until the middle of next week.

For the second day, the prime minister left the Commons guessing about the design picked by the cabinet at a meeting Thursday.

There are rumors the number of maple leaves has shrunk from three to one.

The rumors seem to have arisen from Mr. Pearson's replies Thursday to Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur). Their exchange, at the tail-end of a series of flag questions, went this way:

"Does the flag design he has chosen have a maple leaf on it?" Mr. Fisher asked.

"Yes, Mr. Speaker," replied Mr. Pearson.

Does it have three maple leaves on it?" asked Mr. Fisher.

Mr. Pearson gave no reply. It has been generally assumed the number is three, largely on the basis of Mr. Pearson's publicly expressed "hankering" for three red maple leaves on a white ground with a vertical blue bar at the staff and fly edges.

Curiosity in the Commons was unabated Friday. To oppose

A National Flag Plebiscite

Don't Leave It in Hands Of Politicians to Decide

Though the Daily Colonist takes the editorial stand that the Canadian Red Ensign should be retained as Canada's flag, it recognizes the right of every Canadian of voting age to express his personal and free views on the matter.

The Colonist firmly believes that the choice of a national symbol is something that cannot and must not be left in the hands of politicians to decide under partisan duress.

The only way to remove this issue from the realm of politics is for a national plebiscite to be held, in which every Canadian citizen can make his or her own decision known to the government.

Colonist readers who support this view are urged to complete the coupon form below. Simply clip it, sign it and enclose it in an envelope addressed to The Rt. Hon. Lester B. Pearson, House of Commons, Ottawa. No stamp is necessary.

Dear Prime Minister:

I am in favor of a national plebiscite to decide upon the selection of a Canadian national flag.
